Sanjay Malhotra is new RBI chief

To assume charge on Wednesday; faces dual challenge of high inflation & slowing growth

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

THE government on Monday appointed Revenue Secretary Sanjay Malhotra as the 26th Governor of the Reserve Bank of India. Malhotra, 56, will assume charge on Wednesday, a day after the six-year tenure of incumbent Shaktikanta Das ends.

A 1990 batch Rajasthan cadre IAS officer, Malhotra has been appointed for three years. He has extensive administrative experience of over 33 years working with various central and state government departments across finance, taxation, power, IT, and mining.

Malhotra's appointment comes at a challenging time as the central bank has to keep the country's retail inflation within the mandated range of 2-6% while clearing the path for economic growth. His decisions will be watched keenly as the latest data shows retail inflation remains above RBI's upper limit at 6.21% in October while GDP growth has slumped to 5.4% in the second quarter of FY25.

The delayed announcement of the new RBI governor's appointment, made just a day before Das's tenure was to end, created a buzz that the incumbent might get another extension. That Das met Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Saturday also fuelled the speculation. Das was appointed as RBI governor after the abrupt exit of Urjit Patel on December 12, 2018. In 2021, he was given a three-year extension, which will end on December 10.

According to experts, the appointment shows the Central government's preference for IAS officers as RBI governors, rather than bringing economists from outside. Malhotra's experience in the finance ministry is expected to ensure smooth coordination with the government in matters of monetary policy.

WINTER SESSION BEGINS

Waqf, Panchamasali quota issues rock Houses

PRAMOD VAIDYA & FIROZ ROZINDAR @ Belagavi

BOTH Houses witnessed heated debates on Waqf issue and the demand to increase reservation for Panchamasali Lingayat community, here on Monday.

As soon as the session began, MLAs from ruling and opposition parties traded charges and blamed each other for the controversy over the demand for increasing reservation for Panchamasalis. Assembly Speaker UT Khader adjourned the House for an hour.

The Upper House too witnessed noisy scenes during the debate on the demand for more quota for Panchamsalis. Chairman Basavaraj Horatti adjourned the House for sometime as his efforts to pacify the irate members went in vain. Given the first day's development, both Houses may witness heated debates on Tuesday too.

According to sources in BJP, their legislators are ready to target the ruling Congress over the Waqf issue when it comes up for discussion, particularly in the Lower House.

In the Council, the discussion on the Waqf issue was allowed under Rule 68 after opposition members appealed to Horatti for the same stating that many landowners, particularly farmers, have been affected by the notices of the Waqf Board, claiming its rights over their lands.

Leader of Opposition in the Council Chalavadi Narayanaswamy claimed that landowners, particularly farmers, lived in the fear of losing their lands. P4

Reservation can't be based on religion: SC

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

RELIGION cannot be the basis for granting reservation, the Supreme Court said on Monday, while hearing a batch of pleas, including one by the West Bengal government, challenging the Calcutta High Court's decision to quash the Other Backward Class (OBC) classification of 77, mostly Muslim, communities.

A two-judge bench of the court, led by Justice B R Gavai and Justice K V Viswanathan, observed, "Reservation cannot be on the basis of religion."

In its May 22 verdict, the high court had said, "Religion indeed appears to have been the sole criterion for declaring these communities as OBCs."

Senior advocate Kapil Sibal, appearing for the state government, told the court that, "This reservation is not based on religion but backwardness which has been upheld by the court. Even for Hindus, its on the basis of backwardness."

The Supreme Court adjourned the matter to January 7 for a detailed hearing.

INDIA BLOC PUSH

Coming: No-trust motion against V-P

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

IN a breakdown of ties between the Opposition and the NDA government, the INDIA bloc on Monday said it is contemplating an impeachment motion against Vice President and Rajya Sabha chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar.

Several Opposition MPs, including TMC and SP members, have signed a resolution for a no-trust motion against Dhankhar under Article 67(B) of the Constitution, which says the V-P may be removed from office with a resolution passed by a majority of members in the Rajya Sabha. The Lok Sabha, too, has to approve it. BJP sources said the Opposition does not have the numbers as the NDA's 119 seats puts it just past the majority mark as the RS strength is 238.

Stop attacks on Hindus, Dhaka told

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

FOREIGN Secretary Vikram Misri on Monday raised the issue of attacks on Hindus in Bangladesh during the first high-level diplomatic engagement between New Delhi and Dhaka since the Muhammad Yunus-led interim government took power in August.

Voicing concerns over the safety of minorities in Bangladesh, Misri told his counterpart Mohammad Jashim Uddin that the attacks on cultural, religious and diplomatic properties were regrettable.

Misri also called on the chief advisor of Bangladesh's interim government, Muhammad Yunus and Foreign Affairs Advisor Md Touhid Hossain.

Misri expressed New Delhi's desire for a "positive, constructive and mutually beneficial" relationship with Dhaka.

"Today's discussions have given both of us the opportunity to take stock of our relations. I appreciate the opportunity today to have had a frank, candid and constructive exchange of views with all my interlocutors," he told reporters after meeting Uddin.

While expressing anguish over the recent incidents of violence against minorities during the meetings, Misri said he also underlined India's desire to work closely with the interim government of Bangladesh.

Misri emphasised that people are the main stakeholders in India-Bangladesh relations, and noted that India's development cooperation and multifaceted engagements with Bangladesh, including in the areas of connectivity, trade, power, energy and capacity building, are all geared towards the benefit of the people of Bangladesh.

He said India expected an overall constructive approach on all these issues by the Bangladesh authorities and looked forward to moving the relationship forward in a positive and constructive direction.

During these meetings, Misri highlighted India's support for a democratic, stable, peaceful, progressive and inclusive Bangladesh, the MEA said. P11

HERITAGE LOVERS SEE RED OVER DEMOLITION OF CANTT STN ARCHES

Call it a crime & disaster, while Railways say it was done for safety of passengers

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE demolition of the ancient arches between Platform One and Platform Two of Bengaluru Cantonment station recently by the Railways has shocked and upset heritage conservationists and railway enthusiasts. They insist that modern technology could be deployed to preserve and retain it somehow while the Railways states that the dilapidated structure was a risk to lives of passengers and had to done away with.

The iconic station, the first railway station in Karnataka to operate trains, is being redeveloped as a world class structure at a cost of Rs 480 crore. Ironically, an official release from the South Western Railway Zone released last year in connection with the work had stressed that heritage structure of the station would be preserved.

As on date, 20 of the masonry arches located on the tracks between PF1 and PF2, which are over a century old, have been razed to the ground. The active heritage preservation community in the City demands answers from the Railways and wants to know why no consultation happened when such invaluable structures were destroyed.

Prabha Dev, a member of Heritage Beku, a citizen-led initiative questions, "How come contractors and their architects are unaware of the heritage value of what they demolished. The new structure should have incorporated the heritage arches. Do we lack imagination in the new urban development projects?"

Founder of the initiative Priya Chetty-Rajagopal bills the demolition as "a crying shame." Heritage is just not a priority in Bengaluru and there has been no consultation done, she said. "There existed a Bengaluru Urban Arts Commission under the Bangalore Development Authority which has been disbanded. In Bengaluru, structures fall under the purview of both the BDA and the BBMP but there is just no clarity on who is the deciding authority."

T R Raghunandan, a member of the national Rail Enthusiasts Society, bills the removal of the arches as 'a disaster and a completely thoughtless action by officials for whom heritage preservation is just not a priority.' A resident of Cantonment area since 1976, this steam-engine enthusiast recalls the ancient charm the station possesses. The station used to have a steam shed and a turntable to turn engines around, but these are long gone.

A source at the Constructions Division of South Western Railway told TNIE, "We are merely executing the work for the Bengaluru Railway Division. We were asked to demolish it and have followed it. The wall runs to a height of nearly 60 metres with the arches in a sequence as extensions above it. These old arches were in a dilapidated condition and were weak."

Bengaluru Divisional Railway Manager, Yogesh Mohan told TNIE, "The arches were in a dilapidated condition and they could collapse on passengers any time. We cannot preserve heritage at the cost of passenger safety. They have been removed only as a safety step. We have done the best we could in the interest of the public."

Rooftop solar scheme ambitious, but problems persist?

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

EVEN as the state and Union governments look to increase solar power generation in the country, consumers have highlighted a slew of problems they are grappling with on the ground, while installing rooftop solar panels, all in the bid to generate green energy.

At a recent workshop organised by BESCOM on the implementation of PM Surya Ghar Muft Bijli Yojana in the city, consumers pointed out that they were finding it difficult to avail loans, since those aged above 65 years were not even being considered as applicable. Members of apartment federations stated that while applying for loans, banks considered such entities as MSMEs. They also mentioned that in order to release loans to apartments, the Ministry of New and Renewable Energy (MNRE) had not even issued any specific guidelines, and they accordingly demanded that the guidelines be issued with regard to apartment federations.

Members of the State-level Bankers Committee (SLBC), who were also present at the workshop, explained that those keen to seek loans under the scheme, can name their family members as co-borrowers. The SLBC members added that banks will not ask for any collateral security to avail loan facility for implementing the PM Surya Ghar scheme.

Meanwhile, the Karnataka government is looking to target those consumers not covered by the Gruha Jyoti guarantee, estimated to be around 37 lakh households in the state, to help them avail the PM Surya Ghar Muft Bijli Yojana. BESCOM is the state's nodal agency for speedy implementation of the Yojana.

BESCOM MD Mahantesh Bilagi said that of the 5.15 lakh registrations for the scheme, 1.17 lakh applications have been accepted. Also, 353 private vendors have registered in the MNRE portal.

Explaining the scheme, Bilagi said the government will provide a subsidy ranging from Rs 30,000 up to Rs 78,000 for domestic grid-connected rooftop plants and financial assistance for the installation of solar panels.

Bonsai Garden to be reopened at Lalbagh

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

THE Bonsai Garden that was closed to the public two years ago is all set to be reopened soon, now with fresh landscaping involving wood and rock stands, and a surface filled with sand for the short plants, mostly succulents. If all goes well, it will be open for public again from January.

With Republic Day around the corner, Lalbagh Botanical Garden authorities are gearing up for the flower show and are planning to reopen the Bonsai Garden. "The Bonsai garden was closed to the public for two years. Many plants had died earlier. It required a new landscape and hence, some of the surviving trees were kept aside and nurtured, while the work was being carried out. About half acre on the 3-acre area of the Bonsai Garden will be opened in phase-1. The rest of the garden will also will be developed in the next few months," said a senior Lalbagh Botanical Garden official.

This apart, the authorities are ready with 9 lakh plants including 5 lakh potted ones that will have to be arranged throughout the Flower Show venue. The authorities who are yet to decide on the Republic Day theme in January, will meet the Horticulture Minister SS Mallikarjun and come out with a decision soon.

The authorities also informed that, as part of the 10-day Flower Show during Republic Day, they are getting ready with grass beds, and different plants in pots for arranging at Glass House.

LACK OF TECH

India Post stuck in time warp, declines QR code payments

S LALITHA @Bengaluru:

PEANUT sellers, flower sellers and even those seeking alms in the city readily accept the QR mode of payment. However, India Post is still rooted in rupee notes and coins, and refuses to embrace interface payment technology. Visitors who wish to avail of post office services should be prepared to carry cash.

The irony is that the neighbourhood post office no longer sells just stamps or covers or books parcels and handles savings accounts of the public. Over the past decade, it has transformed into a multi-utility hub which accepts various bill payments apart from selling application forms for college courses and competitive exams. Moreover, the Bengaluru postal department is developing IT 2.0 for India Post across the country, to incorporate the latest technology in its operations.

Bewildered customers arguing with counter staff over the cash payment issue is a common sight at the GPO. This is invariably followed by a dash to the nearest ATM to withdraw cash, notwithstanding the several flights of steep stairs.

Adriel Alastair, a second year law student, had to send a document to Germany urgently, and brought only his phone along. "I needed Rs 260 in cash. I managed to convince another customer who had cash to accept a transfer from my side to his mobile number, and paid the counter clerk," he told TNIE. "India today runs on this mode of payment. Why does the government launch a BHIM app when a Central government department does not accept such payment?"

Sonu Thakur had to dispatch his parcel from the GPO. "It is my fourth visit here. Each time, the postal department had a problem with modern payment methods. They had a QR facility once, but said it was routed through a third party and I had to pay a little extra."

The worst hit are customers sending international consignments, who need to carry a few thousand rupees when visiting the Parcel section. Following an uproar on social media last year, QR payment was accepted for parcels alone earlier. "It was stopped nearly three months ago here too," said an official.

When this reporter visited the GPO to open a savings account, a helpful staffer went out of his way to help. Stating that QR payment was not possible, he got in touch with another staffer who had cash with him, and arranged for transfer of Rs 500 required to open an account to his mobile collect it and hand it at the counter," he suggested. The account got opened after that was done.

A senior official told TNIE, "The technology we have in our department at present is not compatible with some kinds of payments and we are upgrading it. This issue is common across all post offices. By April 2025, the issue will be sorted out when we incorporate the new IT system getting ready."

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

10TH December: I was talking about the Moon goddess yesterday. In some cultures, though, the Moon is a god. In ancient Babylon he ruled the calendar and, because we count the days, he was responsible for maths. In ancient Egypt he was also responsible for magic so, if you really wanted to get your way, he was the god to call on!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You're good at picking winners. At least, that's the current indication. I'd say that the two key considerations at the moment are that you follow methods which are tried, tested and reliable - and look at the minutiae of the situation, rather than the big picture.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
This does not have to be a week of discord, disagreements and conflict, but that's just what it could be if you succumb to frustration and impatience. As you know, it's much better to give people a second chance, especially at home. Why not follow your own advice?

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
The main Geminian danger lies in trying to be too clever. The planetary signs strongly advise you to learn the lessons of the past! Look again at a advice from people you know and trust. You might not have taken any notice so far, but now could be a good time to make up for that!

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Domestic discussions should be pursued with great vigour. Being diplomatic and considerate is quite compatible with standing up for your rights. It's just a question of arranging all your points in order before you open your mouth, and getting partners to listen.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
In many ways it's a favourable day, but it all depends how you handle today's generally loose, laid-back and highly individualistic circumstances. You'll do best to stick to your principles, but there doesn't seem to be any real reason why you can't be infinitely flexible when it comes to the details.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Try not to invite trouble or discord by saying anything in haste or in anger. The plain fact is that the nicer you are to other people, the more pleasant they'll be to you. Simple, isn't it? Plus, you may have forgotten a number of important facts. You might even have lost a vital piece of paper!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You ought soon to be free from a lot of unnecessary pressure, and also from unwanted commitments. You are therefore ready to take the path of universal love, a concept which I know is treated with some scepticism in certain circles! Still, that's no reason for you to be cynical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Even those people with whom you have had profitable dealings in the past are now likely to use unorthodox methods in a vain attempt to gain the upper hand. Don't worry: they're suffering from a bad bout of over-confidence, and they'll be brought back down to earth soon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The overwhelming emphasis is still on travel plans, which today look optimistic, enthusiastic and confident. Such stars always carry with them a warning to consciously check all details, especially regarding legal queries. By the way, you may be embarking on a journey of the spirit or the mind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
In many respects it's a Capricornian moment, a time to slow down and make sure your life is resting on firm foundations. There's still a lot of life in the old goat yet and now is also the time to revive long-term dreams with a view to completion next year.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
For someone who is supposed to leap before they look, you have certainly been changing your spots, becoming more cautious by the hour. Perhaps it's because you realise that your choices will only work if you anticipate the possible practical problems. You may appreciate partners' many little tempting blandishments, but don't let them pull you off course.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)

BJP condemns decision to ban protest by Panchamasali Lingayats outside Suvarna Soudha, asks if Emergency is in force in state

SIDDU: WILL PLACE BJP GOVT'S AFFIDAVIT TO SC BEFORE HOUSE

PRAMODKUMAR VAIDYA @ Belagavi

IN an effort to counter the Opposition BJP which has extended support to the Panchamasali Linayats' protest demanding higher reservation, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Monday told the Assembly that he will place before it the previous saffron party government's affidavit to the Supreme Court on the issue that advocated maintaining status quo. The CM was responding to BJP MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal, who sought clarity on the State Government's position regarding the issue.

In his response, Siddaramaiah informed the Assembly that his government is bound by the affidavit submitted by the previous government to the Supreme Court, which advocated maintaining the status quo. Despite objections from BJP members, Siddaramaiah challenged them, expressing his readiness to place the affidavit filed by the previous saffron party government in the Assembly.

Siddaramaiah's statement came on the eve of the Panchamasali Lingayats planning to protest outside the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha, demanding to be included in 2A category (15%) of the OBC reservation matrix. They are currently included under 3B (5%).

Meanwhile, the Belagavi district administration's decision to prohibit the protest drew sharp criticism from the Opposition BJP in the Assembly on Monday. The BJP members accused the Congress government of infringing on the right to peaceful protest.

BELAGAVI WINTER SESSION 2024

The issue arose as Speaker UT Khader announced the unveiling of a portrait of Anubhava Mantapa, considered the first seat of democracy established in the 12th century by social reformer Basavanna, at Suvarna Soudha. BJP MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal objected to the administration's decision and demanded an explanation from the government for the prohibition of the Panchamasali sect's planned protest.

The Panchamasali sect, led by Jaya Mrutyunjaya Swamiji of the Koodalasangama Panchamasali Peetha, has been protesting for years for the community to be included in the 2A category reservation.

PANCHAMASALI RESERVATION ROW

Yatnal, a prominent leader of the sect, expressed outrage over the administration's move. When the government did not respond, he, along with other BJP MLAs, staged a protest in the well of the House, seeking intervention from the Speaker.

Leader of Opposition R Ashoka criticised the State Government's silence, questioning, "Is an Emergency imposed to prohibit the protest? Does the public not have the right to dissent against the government? This approach resembles a dictatorial rule." He warned that if any untoward incident occurred during the planned protest, the government will be held accountable.

Amid these developments, some Congress MLAs accused the BJP of neglecting pressing issues such as crop loss caused by unseasonal rains. As BJP MLAs persisted with their protest, the Speaker adjourned the session for lunch. When the House reconvened, the BJP MLAs continued their protest.

Meanwhile, Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara intervened and said that the information he received was that close to 5,000 tractors were to be brought to the Suvarna Soudha as part of the protest. If such a large number of vehicles are brought to the Soudha vicinity, it would be hard to conduct the session, and maintaining law and order would become challenging, he said.

The minister clarified that if the protest is held in a restricted way, the government is not averse to it, as staging a protest is their democratic right, and the protesters would be allowed to come in smaller vehicles. The Belagavi Deputy Commissioner and Superintendent of Police have already informed the organisers of the protest.

Meanwhile, Women and Child Development Minister Laxmi Hebbalkar expressed her disappointment over the prohibition imposed by the Belagavi administration on the Panchamasali protest. Speaking to the media, she said protests should not be stopped in a democratic setup. The minister said that she would meet Panchamasali seers and other top leaders of the community on the issue and take a decision.

Muniyappa: Will not cancel BPL cards of real beneficiaries

FIROZ ROZINDAR @ Belagavi

ADMITTING that 20% of BPL cards in Karnataka are with ineligible beneficiaries, Food and Civil Supplies Minister KH Muniyappa reiterated that the government will not cancel the cards of eligible beneficiaries. Muniayappa told the Council on Monday that the State Government intends to streamline the Public Distribution System (PDS) in the state.

Replying to MLA KA Tippeswamy, the minister said that the State Government has not removed any eligible BPL cardholder from the list.

Admitting that a few eligible cardholders might have been removed from the list, Muniyappa said that they can reapply and get the cards again.

He said that so far, the government has removed 3.5 lakh ineligible BPL cardholders and put them into the APL category. "We have removed the people who are either government employees or they are taxpayers. Since they are ineligible as per norms, we have removed them," he said. Claiming that the government needs about three months to set things right, the minister sought the cooperation of the Opposition in streamlining PDS.

"When we decide to remove ineligible persons, the Opposition goes to the media and speaks against the government," he said, attracting the wrath from BJP MLCs. Chairman Basavaraj Horatti, who tried to pacify the irate BJP MLCs, opined that going before the media is the right of any party.

BJP MLC CT Ravi wondered how it is possible that over 70% of Karnataka's population lives below the poverty line. To this, Muniyappa said that while BPL card holders in other southern states do not go beyond 50% of the total population, in Karnataka the number exceeds 70%.

Replying to Tippeswamy on the government stopping the distribution of ration to APL card holders at subsidised rates, the minister said that of the over 25 lakh APL card holders, only about 1 lakh were taking ration.

BJP spreading lies on Waqf issue: Priyank

NARAYANASWAMY alleged that the problem started after the then prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru gave unchecked powers to the Waqf boards.

Taking exception to his statement, Congress MLC BK Hariprasad tried to correct him, stating that the law was framed during British rule in 1913, which came into force in 1923. "Therefore, don't try to mislead people that the Act was formulated by the Congress government," he said.

RDPR Minister Priyank Kharge accused BJP legislators of spreading false information on the Waqf issue. Ministers Dinesh Gundu Rao and Kharge and other Congress MLCs displayed documents claiming that many notices were issued to farmers and other landowners by the Waqf Board during the BJP rule.

The House plunged into chaos when BJP MLC CT Ravi alleged that the UPA government at the Centre amended the Waqf Act, giving unchecked powers to Waqf boards.

Objecting to it, Hariprasad raised the point of order stating that Ravi was giving false information and no such amendment was made by the UPA government.

At this juncture, Congress MLCs Abdul Jabbar and Nasir Ahmed said they were ready to resign as legislators if Ravi proved his claim. "If you don't prove it, you should resign," Nasir told Ravi. Deputy chairperson MK Pranesh tried to bring the House to order, but could not. Finally, he adjourned the House for the day.

Centre to fix higher support price for tur

Agriculture Minister N Chaluvarayaswamy said that a second letter will be written to the Centre, requesting fixing of higher support price for tur dal, and steps taken to announce higher support price for it in Kalaburagi district. He was responding to a calling attention motion moved by MLC Thippannappa Kamakanoora, who pointed out that though 30 lakh farmers in Kalaburagi had received the G1-Tag Class-31 certificate for growing tur from 2017 to 2019, the farmers were suffering losses due to non-declaration of scientific support price based on its quality. The Commission on Agriculture Costs and Prices calculates production cost in different states for kharif and rabi crops every year, in collaboration with agriculture universities, and recommends fixing of additional support price to the Centre. Chaluvarayaswamy said CACP has been requested to fix 20-25% higher support price.

New MLAs take oath

Members who were elected in the recently concluded by-elections were sworn in as MLAs on the first day of the winter session here on Monday. E Annapoorna Tukaram, Yasir Ahmed Khan Pathan and CP Yogeshwara, elected from Sandur, Shiggaon and Channapatna assembly segments respectively, took oath in the name of the God. However, Pathan said he swore in the name of his parents and the Constitution. Speaker UT Khader and other members of the House congratulated them.

Ratan Tata, others remembered

The obituary reference mentioned industrialist Ratan Tata, head of Khwaja Bande Nawaz Darga in Kalaburagi Syed Shah Khusro Hussaini, former ministers Manohar Tahsildar and KH Srinivas, former MLAs Basavaraj AS, Laxminarayan K and Venkatareddy Mudnal. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, Opposition leader R Ashoka, ministers and members of all parties recalled the service rendered by the departed souls in their respective fields. However, Deputy Speaker Rudrappa Lamani expressed concern that several former MLAs do not get due honour when their last rites are performed, and urged the government to ensure honour for all members.

New seat for the Speaker

The Speaker's chair at Suvarna Soudha has been replaced with a new one, designed on the lines of the one in the Vidhana Soudha assembly. Speaker UT Khader said the new chair has been designed as perceived by Vidhana Soudha architect Kengal Hanumanthaiah, and is made of rosewood. It was first suggested by Deputy CM DK Shivakumar and later approved and appreciated by CM Siddaramaiah.

Neonatal deaths: BYV slams govt

State BJP President BY Vijayendra blamed the state government for neonatal and mothers' deaths in Ballari and Belagavi Institute of Medical Sciences (BIMS) Hospital. He said he was visiting the hospital to ascertain the truth behind the deaths of infants and mothers in Belagavi. He said he would raise the issue of deaths of infants and mothers in Ballari and Belagavi in the Assembly. Women and Child Development Minister Laxmi Hebbalkar has said there are several causes for the recent deaths of infants and mothers at BIMS, but claimed they were not similar to the cases registered in Ballari. She said the deaths were due to deficiency of iron, premature deliveries, etc.

Protesting farmers tie KSRTC bus driver's hands

ENS @ Belagavi

A group of protesting farmers tied the hands of a KSRTC bus driver with a green towel angry over the policemen preventing them from staging an agitation near Suvarna Vidhana Soudha on Monday. The agitators were being shifted in the bus to a designated site of protest near the Soudha when a group of farmers tied the hands of the bus driver.

A large number of farmers from Rajya Raitha Sangha and Hasiru Sene were staging a protest demanding the government to fulfil their demands. They entered into a verbal duel with the police for trying to stop them from protesting. When they were herded into the bus to take them to the protest site, the farmers tied the hands of the bus driver.

Siddu govt suppressed 2016 report on Waqf land: Siroya

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

BJP MP Lahar Singh Siroya on Monday alleged that the Siddaramaiah government suppressed the Upa Lokayukta report on Waqf properties in March 2016 and urged the Joint Parliamentary Committee (JPC) on the Waqf (Amendment) Bill, 2024, to look into its recommendations.

The report has details of criminal misuse, mismanagement, illegal subletting, and encroachment of Waqf properties over the decades in Karnataka by those legally authorised to protect them, the MP stated in his letter to JPC chairperson Jagdambika Pal.

"I had a chance to look at this report, which is not in the public domain. It has been made to vanish deliberately. I can tell you the report is very indicting. It does not cover in glory those in politics and civil society who constantly try to represent the cause of the Muslim community," the MP said.

He said the day it was submitted in March 2016, the then Siddaramaiah government arbitrarily withdrew its order, constituting the inquiry commission under the Upa Lokayukta in 2012.

He said, "Why did the government panic and withdraw its own inquiry order? Who was the Siddaramaiah government trying to protect in 2016? Is it because if the report came out, some big names in Congress, including Siddaramaiah's friends and allies in the party and government, would face severe consequences?"

He said the report may offer some vital inputs to the JPC. The Upa Lokayukta report is interesting because it has in its appendix, reports submitted by all deputy commissioners in Karnataka on the extent of misuse of Waqf land. The reports from Bengaluru Urban, Kalaburgi and Mysuru deserve special attention, he stated.

Anubhava Mantapa work half done, likely to miss Dec 2025 deadline

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THE State Government's ambitious project, Anubhava Mantapa, a replica of the very first parliament in the world in 12th century AD in Basavakalyan taluk, Bidar district, will take more time to complete.

The project aims at promoting the teachings of social reformer Basavanna. It was mooted in 2016 during Siddaramaiah's first tenure as chief minister, and got the nod at the cabinet meeting in 2019.

The foundation was laid in January 2021 by the then Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa, just before bypolls in Basavakalyan constituency.

6 floors, 770 pillars

Even after four years, the project is not complete. As per the plan, the complex will have six floors with 770 pillars, each pillar representing Basavanna's followers, believed to be 770. The building will be in the Chalukyan style of architecture. The project was delayed even after Yediyurappa laid the foundation in 2021, and work started only in 2022. According to official sources in the Basavakalyan Development Board, as on date, only 50 per cent of the construction work is complete. The tentative deadline for completion is December 2025, but work is expected to take more time, and extend into 2026.

Council Chairman Basavaraj Horatti, DyCM DK Shivakumar, CM Siddaramaiah, Assembly Speaker UT Khader, and others at the unveiling of a portrait of Anubhava Mantapa at Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi on Monday | EXPRESS

The initial estimate during Yediyurappa's tenure was low, but as time went by, and with more facilities and additions, the project cost escalated.

In 2022, administrative approval was given for the revised estimate of Rs 612 crore, and a work order issued to the Pune-based company. "Of this, Rs 290 crore has been released so far," sources said.

Sources also said that in 2021, then Chief Minister Yediyurappa had given a deadline of two years. Later, when Basavaraj Bommai was the CM in May 2022, he had set a deadline of three years.

Meanwhile, earlier this year, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah had announced that work on the Anubhava Mantapa will be completed in 2025.

One of the reasons was to woo Lingayats. With only 50 per cent of the work completed, the deadline is likely to be missed again.

SS(UBT) LEADER SANJAY RAUT SLAMS MAHA GOVT FOR 'NEGLECTING' BORDER ISSUES

BELAGAVI: Shiv Sena (Uddhav Balasaheb Thackeray) leader and Rajya Sabha member Sanjay Raut has slammed the Maharashtra government and the state's Deputy CM Eknath Shinde for their lack of concern over issues faced by border residents, particularly in the Belagavi region. Raut was speaking to the reporters in Belagavi over phone from Mumbai on Monday. He questioned the intent and actions of Shinde's faction leaders, including Uday Samant, who planned to attend a Marathi-speaking conference (Maha Melava) organised by the Maharashtra Ekikaran Samiti (MES) in protest against the Karnataka government for conducting the winter session of its legislature in Belagavi. Meanwhile, the Karnataka police was deployed at Bogarves Circle in Belagavi to manage the protests by MES. Over 100 police personnel arrested several Marathi speakers who had gathered. The police stopped several Maharashtra leaders from entering Karnataka, for attempting to attend the Mala Melava.

DARSHAN TO UNDERGO SURGERY TOMORROW

Actor's lawyer says no violation of interim bail conditions, adds patient can't decide on op

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Monday reserved orders on the bail petitions filed by actor Darshan and seven accused, including Pavithra Gowda, in connection with the murder of Renukaswamy.

Justice S Vishwajith Shetty reserved the order after concluding arguments of the prosecution and defence counsels, and extended interim bail granted to Darshan, whose surgery has been fixed on December 11, until further orders.

Continuing further arguments, Special Public Prosecutor (SPP) P Prasanna Kumar argued on behalf of the city police and contended that an eyewitness had stated that actor Darshan kicked the private parts of deceased Renukaswamy, and stamped his chest after his pant was removed, at Pattanagere shed in the city, apart from the other accused assaulting him.

Contending that technical evidence supported by eyewitnesses shows the involvement of the accused persons in the crime, the SPP argued that the postmortem report pointed out 39 external injuries on the body of the deceased. The movement of Darshan and Pavithra Gowda to the shed was recorded on CCTV, coupled with Call Details Records (CDR) showing the accused's presence at the location.

The presence of DNA on the cloth of the accused Darshan has also supported the case. The DNA report is cent percent accurate. Therefore, the doubt expressed by the defence about the DNA report is incorrect, he argued.

In reply, senior counsel C V Nagesh argued on behalf of Darshan that the prosecution has questioned Darshan for still not undergoing surgery. Being a patient, the accused cannot postpone or decide on the surgery, and it was the duty of the doctor to fix the date and perform the surgery, based on health condition. Therefore, the accused cannot force the doctor to perform surgery, saying interim bail is concluding. The surgery will be performed on December 11 and therefore, there is no violation of interim bail conditions on his part, he argued.

The orders on the bail petitions filed by Nagaraju R, Anu Kumar, Lakshman M, Pavitra Gowda, V Vinay, Jagadeesh and Pradoosh S Rao were also reserved.

K'taka HC dimisses PDO's petition against suspension

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

PUBLIC confidence in the due discharge of duties by officials is shaken if such officials are not put under suspension pending disposal of the criminal case against them, said the Karnataka High Court while dismissing the petition filed by a Panchayat Development Officer (PDO) questioning his suspension owing to corruption charges.

Justice Krishna S Dixit and Justice C M Joshi dismissed the petition filed by PDO D M Padmanabha of Kundana Grama Panchayat of Devanahalli taluk in Bengaluru Rural district, questioning the order dated November 25, 2024, passed by the Karnataka State Administrative Tribunal which dismissed his petition against his suspension.

The petitioner was suspended on September 6, 2024, after he was booked under Section 7(a) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, and he has challenged the same on the ground that no reasons were given for the same.

The court noted that the Karnataka General Services (Development Branch and Local Administration Branch) Cadre and Recruitment (Amendment) Rules, 2024 have vested the power of appointment in the Commissioner - Rural Development and Panchayat Raj and that has not altered the power of the Chief Executive Officer of Zilla Panchayat to suspend employees of this kind.

Techie ends life over 'harassment', blames wife, her kin in suicide note

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A 34-year-old software engineer died by suicide at his residence in Marathahalli, leaving a 24-page death note behind. He had stuck a sheet of paper printed with 'Justice is Due' on the T-shirt he was wearing. It is suspected that the man took the extreme step due to alleged harassment by his wife and her family. He also recorded a video before hanging himself in his room. The deceased Atul Subhash was from Uttar Pradesh.

The police said Subhash was reportedly suffering from depression. Before taking the extreme step, Subhash sent a message at midnight on the WhatsApp group of an NGO which deals with domestic harassment by women, informing that he was ending his life. A group member saw the message in the morning and alerted police, who reached his room to find him hanging, with a sheet of paper pasted on his T-shirt that read 'Justice is Due'. He had also pasted printouts on the wall with the same message.

Subhash's wife had reportedly filed nine cases against him in UP, charging him with murder attempts and dowry harassment. He had separated from his wife over the dispute. Subhash had allegedly been planning his suicide for three days. "He had pasted a detailed to-do list before ending his life, and titled it 'Final task before Mukti' and pasted it on a cupboard in the room. It also had instructions on where his death note and keys were kept, along with a list of completed and pending tasks over two days," the police said. In his 24-page note, he mentioned the harassment, extortion and corruption he faced from his wife and her family, as well as a gift he left for his four-year-old son. The video Subhash recorded claimed that five individuals, including a family court judge in Jaunpur, and his wife Nikita Singhania and her family members were responsible for his death. He also described the burden of the nine cases filed against him and his parents, which forced him to frequently travel between Bengaluru and Jaunpur.

A senior officer said police are yet to register a case. Subhash's family were informed, and based on their complaint, further action will be taken.

CONSERVATION OF SMALL SPECIES: A CALL TO ACTION

INDIA has made commendable strides in protecting its wildlife, dedicating over 5 per cent of its forest area to Protected Areas (PAs), which include sanctuaries and national parks. Our successful Project Tiger, along with similar efforts for other larger species, has garnered international recognition. However, while much has been done for big animals, the plight of smaller wildlife remains largely overlooked.

Today, it is the smaller species across myriad habitats — some secured but mostly unsecured, both inside and outside forest boundaries — that urgently need our attention. These species are often found in open areas, grasslands, scrub forests, agricultural fields and woodlots, which are becoming increasingly vulnerable. Unfortunately, the forest department continues to regard this wildlife as insignificant and are unable to effectively safeguard them. If we don't act swiftly, these species may be lost forever.

Karnataka is a state blessed with diverse habitats, including the Western Ghats, coastal and marine areas, riverine ecosystems, scrub forests and open grasslands. This variety supports a remarkable array of wildlife.

One of the state's most unique species is the Humpback Mahseer, also known as the 'Tiger of the Cauvery'. This indigenous fish, an integral part of the Cauvery river's ecosystem, can weigh up to 25kg. Unfortunately, despite overfishing and habitat degradation pushing this species to the brink of extinction, there is a significant lack of awareness about its decline.

Three years ago, we began a conservation programme at Bheemeshwari, where mahseers were relocated to a pond adjacent to the river. They were reared and then moved to the fisheries department's breeding facility to help increase their population and release fingerlings back into the Cauvery. This unique programme must continue with dedication and sincerity to ensure its success.

The Bidar grasslands in northern Karnataka serve as the breeding ground for the rare Lesser Florican. With fewer than 300 left in India, this shy bird is only visible during its breeding season when the male performs an extraordinary vertical flight display. Despite the bird's significance, awareness of its existence is minimal outside the local birdwatching community. We initiated a monitoring programme, and later the Bombay Natural History Society (BNHS) set up a field station to study the species. Unfortunately, much of the grassland habitat lies outside protected forest areas, making it vulnerable to encroachment and destruction.

SANJAI MOHAN
(Principal Chief Conservator of Forests & Head of Forest Force (retd.), former Chief Wildlife Warden and Head of Forest Force, Karnataka)

The forest department only recently recognized the importance of these grasslands, which were once seen as unutilized land for afforestation. Public participation and widespread awareness are crucial to saving the Lesser Florican from disappearing.

The Great Indian Bustard (GIB), another critically endangered species, faces a similar struggle. Now found only in the Siruguppa region of Ballari district, this bird is considered the most critically endangered. The Union government funded the project as Karnataka had more birds than Gujarat and Maharashtra in 2019. But the population remains dangerously low. Much more is needed to secure their future. Immediate conservation is vital to prevent their extinction. We got a vulture breeding centre sanctioned and it is nearing completion in Bannerghatta.

Challenges in Eastern plains

Karnataka's vast eastern plains are home to several species of wildlife, including blackbucks, hyenas, wolves, jackals and foxes. While blackbucks and jackals are still sighted, other species, such as wolves and hyenas, have become rare. Habitat destruction and human-wildlife conflict, particularly with wolves and hyenas, have led to these animals becoming increasingly nocturnal. We requested the Wildlife Institute of India to undertake a comprehensive project for the status and conservation of these 'canid' species. Unfortunately, the project could not proceed due to a lack of funding. These animals prefer open, rocky grounds for breeding and denning, and protecting such areas outside forest boundaries is challenging. Raising awareness among local communities, along with cooperation from the revenue and police departments, NGOs and educational institutions is essential to safeguarding these species.

The forest department must focus on educating the public about lesser-known species and their specialized habitats. During my tenure, we organized festivals focused on mahseer, Shola forests, frogs, moths, butterflies, and birds, and these efforts must continue.

Additionally, Karnataka's coastline is home to rich marine biodiversity that deserves greater attention. Our water bodies are increasingly threatened by the invasion of exotic species, such as the predatory catfish, which damage local aquatic ecosystems. This problem has serious implications for aquatic bird populations. The department must address this issue and take appropriate remedial measures.

The path forward: A call for dedicated action

Conserving smaller wildlife requires a dedicated team, sustained financial support and high-level interest to achieve meaningful results. Every species on Earth, no matter how small, deserves protection from extinction. It is our duty to ensure their survival. The challenge is great and needs a collective and continuous effort.

Redesigned Telangana Talli statue unveiled

TG govt to honour those who fought for state

MANDA RAVINDER REDDY
@ Hyderabad

AMIDST chanting of Vedic hymns, Chief Minister A Revanth Reddy on Monday unveiled the redesigned Telangana Talli statue on the Secretariat premises. The spectacular fireworks and a drone show that followed brought curtains down on the nine-day long celebrations of the Congress government's first anniversary.

The newly inaugurated Telangana Talli statue at the Secretariat in Hyderabad on Monday | SRILOGANATHAN VELMURUGAN

Addressing the gathering that included Deputy CM Mallu Bhatti Vikramarka, ministers, public representatives and thousands of citizens, mostly women, the chief minister made it clear that the government has given statutory status to the Telangana Talli statue by issuing a GO and said those who try to redesign the statue in the future will be liable for legal action. He added that henceforth, December 9 would be celebrated as Telangana Talli Unveiling Day.

During the occasion, the chief minister announced that the government will honor and felicitate nine noted personalities, who played a key role in the Telangana movement. "The government has decided to recognise, honor and support poets, artists and writers who lost everything for Telangana and contributed immensely to the statehood movement," he said.

Accordingly, the services of Guda Anjaiah, Gaddar, Bandi Yadagiri, Andesri, Goreti Venkanna (BRS MLC), Suddala Ashok Teja, Jayaraju, senior journalist Pasham Yadagiri and Ekka Yadagiri Rao, the sculptor who designed the Telangana Martyrs Statue at Gun Park were recognised. The government will allot them a 300 sq yd plot at Future City and a cash prize of ₹1 crore along with a citation (Tamra Patram). Guda Anjaiah, Gaddar, Bandi Yadagiri are being honored posthumously.

"When I see the Telangana Talli statue, it reminds me of my mother. All ministers and others are expressing the same sentiment. Mother is the only entity we identify with in any part of the world. Mother is the embodiment of our culture and traditions. Our culture was assaulted and insulted in the undivided Andhra Pradesh," Revanth stated, alleging that after the formation of Telangana, one person and one political party gave priority to themselves and neglected the aspirations of the Telangana people.

TN adopts motion, asks centre to scrap tungsten mining

T MURUGANANDHAM @ Chennai

THE Tamil Nadu Assembly on Monday unanimously adopted a resolution urging the Centre to immediately cancel tungsten mining rights given to Hindustan Zinc Limited in Madurai district and not to grant any mining licence in the future without the permission of the state government. CM MK Stalin assured the House that as long as he is the CM, the Tamil Nadu government will never allow tungsten mining in Madurai.

The passing of the resolution witnessed heated exchanges involving the CM, Water Resources Minister Duraimurugan and AIADMK general secretary Edappadi K Palaniswami. Though the AIADMK accused the ruling DMK of failing to take timely action which it alleged led to the awarding of the mining rights, it supported the resolution. The BJP, which was evasive in supporting the resolution, however, did not oppose the motion during the voice vote. Palaniswami accused the DMK MPs of not exerting any pressure on the GOI in Parliament to stop the auction or the adoption of the Bill to amend the Mines and Minerals Act concerning strategic and critical minerals.

MK Stalin said that as long as he is the CM, Tamil Nadu will not allow tungsten mining in Madurai district | EXPRESS

Duraimurugan denied the allegations and said the government indeed opposed GOI's move time and again. The CM added that the DMK MPs strongly opposed the amendment but the BJP-led union government passed the Bill using its majority. When Palaniswami said the DMK government could have averted passing of the resolution had it acted on time in February when the auction process was started, the CM retorted, "The Leader of the Opposition might have felt that way. But in reality, the DMK government opposed this scheme stoutly and it will continue to do so."

BRS working president KT Rama Rao raises slogans against the Congress government, as he is detained by the police, in Hyderabad on Sunday

BRS legislators' protest against MoU with Adani scuttled by cops

HYDERABAD: Several BRS MLAs and MLCs, including party working president KT Rama Rao, were taken into custody on Monday, when they tried to attend the first day of the winter session of the state legislature wearing t-shirts opposing the MoU signed by the Telangana government with the Adani Group. The BRS legislators paid floral tributes at the Martyrs Memorial near Gun Park and later started proceeding towards the Assembly. However, the police stopped them and took them into preventive custody. They were later released. The t-shirts worn by the BRS legislators contained the slogan "Adani-Revanth Bhai Bhai". Speaking to reporters at Gun Park, Rama Rao alleged the Congress was criticising Adani in all other states in the country, but in Telangana, CM A Revanth Reddy and Adani have become one. "We will expose the friendship between Revanth and Adani in the ongoing Assembly session," Rama Rao declared. The BRS legislators later gathered at the Telangana Bhavan and raised slogans against the government. Former minister G Jagadish Reddy alleged that it was for the first time that MLAs were obstructed outside the Assembly.

BIMS deaths: Pvt hosps inflate prices

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @ Ballari

ALLEGEDELY taking advantage of the five maternal deaths reported in a span of a month at Ballari Institute of Medical Sciences (BIMS), some private hospitals have started exploiting patients by jacking up charges for admitting pregnant women. The five deaths had allegedly taken place after banned IV fluid was administered to the patients by BIMS doctors and staff. Following these incidents, many patients who were admitted in BIMS and other government hospitals, have been shifting to private hospitals from the last 15 days.

Parents and relatives of pregnant women are demanding that the district administration should take immediate action against private hospitals to are charging more and ensure that they don't fleece patients.

Nagashekar Reddy (name changed), a resident of Kampli, said, "After the five deaths were reported, I decided to shift my daughter, who was also admitted in BIMS Hospital, to a private hospital. Earlier, one of my relatives who had undergone delivery in that private hospital was charged about Rs 30,000. But when when I admitted my daughter in the same private hospital, they demanded Rs 50,000. All her reports are normal but the hospital is saying that there are no vacant beds available as many pregnant women have got themselves admitted in the hospital."

SHREYAS PANDE

EVER since he rose on the screen in 2021, Allu Arjun's Pushparaj has become an unstoppable force of nature. His staggering refusal to bow down to authority found universal resonance as the film became among the first blockbusters in the post-pandemic era.

With Pushpa 2: The Rule, he goes to the next level, bringing more style to his persona as he swings around in a sari, breaking bones with a touch of vulnerability. His over-the-top action and rousing dialogues are finding an immense release in audiences globally, as is evident from it box-office numbers.

With a worldwide gross of ₹800.50 crore, the film has collected ₹529 crore in India (net) in four days in Telugu, Hindi, Tamil, Malayalam and Kannada. It opened at the box office, earning a whopping ₹164.25 crore, surpassing the opening day numbers of Ranbir Kapoor's Animal (₹63.8 crore), Shah Rukh Khan's Jawan (₹75 crore), Yash's KGF: Chapter 2 (₹116 crore) and Prabhas starrer Baahubali 2: The Conclusion (₹121 crore).

The Sukumar directorial, however, saw a steep decline on Day 2, making ₹93.8 crore. It picked up again over the weekend, raking ₹119.25 crore on Saturday and ₹141.5 crore on Sunday.

The film has been receiving unprecedented acclaim especially in the Hindi belt, minting ₹285.70 crore against ₹197.70 crore in the original Telugu version. On Sunday, it became the first Hindi film to have earned ₹85 crore (India net) in a day.

"The aim of marketing is to know and understand the customer so well the product or service fits him and sells itself" — Peter Drucker

INDIAN EXPRESS IS NOT AN INDUSTRY. IT IS A MISSION.

— Ramnath Goenka

IT'S TIME FOR GOVT TO LOOSEN FISCAL BELT AND SPUR THE ECONOMY

THE voices that support growth over fiscal and monetary prudence are getting louder, especially after the second quarter GDP numbers highlighted the fatigue that has set in in the economy. The economy grew at a much slower pace of 5.4 percent in the July-September quarter, lower than most analysts had expected. Analysts immediately pinned hope on the Reserve Bank of India, which was set to consider the policy rates. But the RBI continued to resist the temptation of a rate cut, citing the risk of persistent inflation. So, the next hope is the government, which will have to pitch in and do some heavy lifting. The next Union budget presents an opportunity to put out some bold measures—including a less aggressive fiscal consolidation roadmap and even tax sops, if needed, to send up a few positive flares.

Even as voices within the government suggest it is now getting jittery about the anaemic growth, they have so far blamed either the RBI or private sector companies for not stimulating growth. Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman and Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal have blamed high interest rates and the RBI's reluctance to go for a cut in the policy rates. Recently, the chief economic advisor to the Union finance ministry decried the fact that despite record profitability, salaries of workers have not increased in a similar proportion; he called for a balance between profitability and workers' income in order to boost consumption.

However, the general perception is that the government has tightened the screws a bit too much on the middle class and needs to give some succour to help revive consumption, which has been lagging for far too long. Many economists feel the government now needs to go slow on fiscal consolidation and offer some leeway to the common man to boost consumer confidence. The government has gone slow on heavy capital expenditure as well, which has also affected job creation, ultimately impacting consumption. The bigger fear now is the limited scope for the government capex to generate the multiplier effect it did a few years ago. The government will now have to be a little more innovative in order to brush off the fatigue afflicting the economy.

RESOLVE WRESTLING FED AND RAILWAYS STANDOFF

LAST week, something extraordinary took place at the Senior Wrestling National Championships. A grappler won his first bout in Greco-Roman wrestling, but was asked to withdraw. Why? His employer, the Railway Sports Promotion Board, told him he had not been cleared to compete at the event in Bengaluru. The seeds of discontent had been sown long before the nationals began. Railways, one of the largest employers of sportspersons in the country, refused to compete at the competition organised by the Wrestling Federation of India. Incidentally, the RSPB secretary is also the secretary of the WFI; but since he was elected with the backing of the protesting wrestlers and, to an extent, the sports ministry, there was discontent among most WFI members.

Things got more complicated when the sports ministry wrote to the Indian Olympic Association to form an ad hoc committee to run the WFI, because it did not recognise the newly-elected body. After railways' wrestlers were allowed to compete at international events through WFI, it seemed a little baffling to prevent the country's top wrestlers from competing at the nationals. However, the RSPB had its own argument. Since the sports ministry has not recognised WFI since last December, the competition too is not legitimate. However, the international federation, United World Wrestling, recognises WFI and accepts entries sent by them.

When the nationals began, top wrestlers including Olympic bronze medallist Aman Sehrawat did not participate. What made things more unsavoury was that some wrestlers who wanted to participate at the nationals could not. In the clash between top WFI and RSPB officials, the players suffered. The sports ministry complicated matters by not coming clear on its policy of recognising not just WFI, but other national sports federations because of a Delhi High Court order passed last August for violation of the 2011 National Sports Development Code. Though there is no official directive, technically, most nationals that have taken place since the August order may face recognition issues, which in turn would affect funding. It's time for the sports ministry and all other stakeholders to urgently address this issue. Not just WFI, most national sporting federations are suffering—elections to more than half a dozen of them are now subjudice. A quick resolution to the standoff will help sports.

RECOMMIT TO UNIVERSAL RIGHTS

TUESDAY marks the 76th birthday of the world's most translated document. The Universal Declaration of Human Rights, a landmark charter enshrining the rights everyone is entitled to as a human being, is available in 577 languages from Abkhaz to Zulu. India was represented by Hansa Mehta, Minoo Masani and Lakshmi Menon on the commission that drafted the document. Its enunciation of rights that must be protected anywhere influenced Constituent Assembly debates in India. As civilian casualties mount like never before since the adoption of the UNDR and polarisation peaks among polities, it's time to revisit the document's 30 articles and re-energise younger generations with the promise they hold out.

Data analytics and smart tech will give the marketer more power in the new year. How she uses those tools to claim the consumer's time will shape marketing campaigns

FIVE FOR 2025: TRENDSPOTTING IN THE MARKETPLACE

HARISH BIJOOR
Brand Guru & Founder, Harish Bijoor Consults

SOURAV ROY

AS every Tom, Dick and Harish puts out his trend sheet for 2025, I thought I might as well do it. Here is a list of marketing trends I see in the year ahead and in the years that will roll out thereafter. Do take it with a pinch of salt, if not a shovel of it.

The second currency is the first currency now: All of us as consumers carry two currencies that take us through life. The first has typically been money and the second, time. The second currency now overtakes money. While money can be topped up in our lives in myriad ways, we are yet to discover how to top up time. Consumers in 2025 will be that much more demanding when it comes to how their time is used by marketers. This has ramifications for media, entertainment, distribution systems, retail, ecommerce, quick commerce, customer-service and a whole host of arenas.

Gone are the days when patient marketers expected their consumers to be patient as well. Marketers need to brush up their act on how they create time-saving products, services and systems for their consumers. Charge a fee for it if need be, but save time. Remember, we as consumers are not living. We are dying. One day at a time. How I die must be my choice, dear marketer, not yours.

The consumer becomes weak, not strong: As marketers of yore kept saying the consumer is king, a whole consumer-centric movement fell into place. Customer-journeys, customer-personas and tools of every kind kept being put together by marketers. These tools are there with us, but their use will lessen in the years ahead. The marketer is becoming that much more powerful today.

Few consumers will hear this from the marketer. Marketers will at first be sly, and then shy to admit this fact. The point remains though that the marketer is getting more and more powerful. Data analysis and enhanced data-reading tools are helping it all. Data is not the "new oil" anymore. Instead, it is the "new alcohol". It reaches those parts of the marketing organisation the marketer never knew existed even. AI tools of every kind enhance the marketer's power.

In many ways, the ownership of personal data is now shared between consumers and marketer. The marketer incidentally has more enhanced tools today to understand every consumer sentiment, mood, tone, tenor, decibel and decision-making journey. I do believe 2025 will see the early signs of quantum computing falling into place. When this happens, expect marketer ability to manage customers (existing and potential) rise by a minimum enhanced factor of 22.

Imagine understanding your customer 22 times better than the marketer does today. The thought is exciting, and scary. It is fraught with the positive and negative equally.

AI tools will help us analyse consumers , design marketing campaigns, design personalisation in everything and create content that is relevant, original and innovative. Expect a new lingo ahead. I will call it "moment-of-weakness marketing".

The marketer will know your every strength and weakness. She will design campaigns to cater to your moment of weakness. And in your weak moment, you will buy what the marketer's power will get you to. The onus of your decision-making shifts to the marketer. We therefore need responsible marketers or responsible consumer-protection angels who will raise the voice when it needs to be raised.

Everything goes virtual: As the burdens of being in the real world increase, virtual society and its products and services will offer solutions that are craved for. This will include love, companionship, sex, travel, food, friendships, clubbing, and lots more. All simulated, of course. You will be able to take a cruise to the Bahamas on Virgin voyages, just as you might have the same cruise line offer you a virtual voyage in your drawing room. A bit like the virtual arrest trending in 'jugaad'-India.

You can possibly pay, participate, pause, and resume the voyage out at your pace. Product and service discovery will happen for all categories in the virtual world. The real and physical world will be less important for the consumer.

The responsible brand emerges: As marketers get the image of being more and more irresponsible with the use of data and technology to their advantage, the responsible brand will emerge. More often than not, this will be spurred on by activist organisations and practitioners of the retro and holistic ways of living.

I categorise nations into four segments. Right at the bottom is what I call the "submerged nation". Challenged nations whom we used to dub underdeveloped in the past. Just above that is the "developing nation". India is one. And then comes the "developed nation". The US for one.

And right at the peak of the pyramid are what I dub the "supra-developed nations". Countries like Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland and the Netherlands are top here. In 2025, expect the responsible branding movement to be spearheaded by two types of countries: The supra-developed and submerged nations.

There will be two pressures on marketers from both ends of the pyramid. These two will occupy the pole position in protecting the future of consumers. The developing and developed nations of the world will live in the now as the other two will dictate, demand and script the long-term future for the earth ahead.

Marketing-affected people: As marketers go berserk with data, enhanced consumer knowledge, personalisation and more, a whole generation of folk in the submerged and supra-developed category of markets and nations will host a large mass of people who I call the "marketing-affected people". These are people who suffer silently in the beginning, and hopefully will get more and more vocal as the years go by. They are the ones who lost jobs, livelihoods and the wherewithal to work itself. The small retail kirana grocer is one such. There are hundreds of others.

I have listed out a total of 41 marketing trends for 2025. I have space for just these five for now. Cheers to 2025 ahead, then! It bears things good, bad, ugly and equally very ugly.

PUSHPA & THE ART OF MAKING MOVIE AS AN OTT SERIES

C P SURENDRAN
Poet, novelist, and screenplay writer. His latest novel is One Love and the Many Lives of Osip B

"TRUE terror," Kurt Vonnegut said, "is to wake up one morning and discover that your high school class is running the country." Or making movies. Sukumar's Pushpa 2: The Rule could well be the end of cinema as we know it. It is an episodic theatrical movie like an OTT series. Netflix and Amazon should watch out.

Normally, a movie has a basic three-act structure: a plot hook within, say, the first 15 minutes that destabilises the protagonist, the rising odds confronting the hero/heroine for the next 50 minutes or so, and the resolution.

But the Pushpa franchise sees itself more as OTT in theaters than a movie. Just as Pushpa 2: The Rule ends in an episodic cliff-hanger, Pushpa 3 is announced. We get up from the seats happy, deaf, and ready for more—of the same.

As with Pushpa 1, the eponymous hero essayed with neurotic intensity by Allu Arjun, Pushpa 2 clearly continues to consume tribal steroids mixed in all his regular mutton-curry meals. Sukumar sees to it that almost every scene has a conflict. It almost always begins with the low caste/black sheep protagonist wanting something, is humiliated, and then getting it.

This formula is how the movie grows—mostly sideways. For example, the state CM Narasimha Reddy, who is in power partly because of Pushpa's charity, refuses to be photographed with the sandalwood smuggler, fearing a political backlash. But Pushpa's wife Srivalli (Rashmika Mandanna) has been promised the gift of the photograph. Naturally, the virtuous, family-oriented Indian audience is more aligned with Pushpa's honour at home than the CM's political fortunes.

So when Pushpa decides to oust the unclickable Reddy and bring in his photo-friendly candidate in his place by 'July 24', the theatre breaks into catcalls and applause. The family-loving, god-fearing, thieving, and marauding underdog is upsetting the applecart of the family-loving, god-fearing, thieving, marauding CM. A substantial part of the action is predicated on avenging this insult. This would be another episode in an OTT series.

The fundamental over-the-top nature of Pushpa's world is perhaps the underlying condition of Indian reality. Sukumar is a master at setting up the 'want' between characters in this hyper world. The trick keeps the action moving.

But it is also useful to sustain the unusual entropy in the movie's world. If Pushpa enters a scene, acceleration of disorder is guaranteed. And only he, with the input of his mythical energy derived from nameless blue tribal gods and goddesses, can bring a certain existential validation to the universe of Chittur, a kind of Gotham without the glitz.

WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

> The fundamental over-the-top nature of Pushpa's world is perhaps an underlying condition of Indian reality. Sukumar is a master at setting up the 'want' between characters in this episodic manner of an OTT series. The trick keeps the action moving

The absurdity at the heart of all things Pushpa is established right in the first scene, in which we see a nonchalant Pushpa, discovered by the goons running the Yokohama port in Japan inside a container of contraband red sandalwood, strung high over the sea from a crane, coming to his senses (or its opposite) and killing or maiming pretty much all of them and then, presumably, swimming back to Andhra Pradesh. Indians are cheap enough to see in this Jap-bashing a vicarious stab of patriotic glee. We are bullies by default.

The audience went crazy all through the Yokohama scene, so totally redundant to the plot because a 'low caste' (a mitigating factor in our current social value system) superhero was justified in slaying a bunch of perplexed Japanese who only wanted Pushpa to explain what he was doing in a lungi in their area.

Low caste or black sheep, brand Pushpa works as it is essentially a Hindu mythological movie with tribal subtexts. Consider, for example, the 'super scene' in which a temporarily transgender Pushpa is blessed with divine energies and walks unharmed on coals. Or in a scene soon after, where he finds himself bound by hands and feet and begins to fly in the air, defeating an army of villains by his teeth. India's very own dental demon.

A normal movie template, as I said, consists of a central conflict with one or two subplots. In Pushpa 2: The Rule, there are many. But the central one, taking off from the first installment of Pushpa, is the one between Pushpa and the police officer Bhanwar Singh Shekhawat (Fahadh Faasil), an apparently brilliant IPS psychopath from Rajasthan, perhaps subliminally establishing the South-North divide in the current cultural discourse.

The conflict between these two deranged people (one a victim, the other the oppressor) is developed for much of the 3 and 1/2 hour fare. Just as we settle down to its inevitable pyromaniac resolution, the last 40 minutes come up with another conflict: Buggi Reddy.

Buggy kidnaps Pushpa's niece, Kaveri. And so Pushpa, despite the humiliation and abuse he has received from Kaveri's father, takes out his gun and rides a helicopter to his armageddon. He emerges victorious by the skin of his teeth.

By now the central conflict has been forgotten after a very long build-up to it. Is anyone confused? Yes, but most seem enraptured, too. Sukumar has brought them to a world where there is little difference between order and chaos. So, when the last scene shows a hand pressing a button (Shekhawat, who else?), and in the distance, Pushpa's family and fellow smugglers are shown being blown up, we know the central conflict will live to fight another day in another episode: Pushpa 3. Only, instead of on Netflix, you watch it in a theatre.

Resilient, hope

Ref: Road to Damascus was always paved with bitter irony (Dec 9). The phrase "road to Damascus" acts as a complex metaphor, reflecting the deeply moving yet hopeful journey of the Syrian people. Authoritarian governments do not last forever. That the Syrian government headed by President Bashar al-Assad has been overthrown by militant group Hayat Tahrir al-Sham is a case in point. 'Hasina's exit a carefully crafted coup'

Former high commissioner to Dhaka Veena Sikri says Pak aims to reverse events of '71 by discreetly backing B'desh

THE interim government, led by Muhammad Yunus, has come to power through a carefully orchestrated coup, says Veena Sikri, former India's high commissioner to Bangladesh. She tells Rajesh Kumar Thakur that Bangladesh currently has no constitutionally-valid government, and adds: "The caretaker of Bangladesh's interim government, Muhammad Yunus, has steered the country towards self-destruction. All of Yunus's decisions are effectively made by his advisor, Mahfuz Alam." Excerpts:

You had been India's high commissioner to Dhaka. How do you perceive the interim government in Bangladesh?
Democracy has been dismantled through a carefully orchestrated coup against the Sheikh Hasina government. The interim government, propelled by anti-Hasina sentiment, is driving the nation into utter chaos and violence, particularly targeting Hindus and other minorities.

Muhammad Yunus operates through his advisor and special assistant, Mahfuz Alam. The interim government is taking Bangladesh on a path that echoes Pakistan's anti-India rhetoric. Without elections, the country's future appears bleak. There is no constitutional provision for an interim government in Bangladesh. So, I refuse to call it a legitimate government. Instead I label it a constitutionally-invalid regime.

Was the coup against the Sheikh Hasina government a spontaneous reaction to student unrest, or there was something more to it?
It was a meticulously planned operation. Anti-India and anti-Hasina sentiment had been nurtured for years, portraying her as an agent of Delhi. These sentiments have been leveraged to execute the coup. Yunus, who maintains close ties with Hillary and Bill Clinton, acknowledged at a public event in New York that the coup was well planned and Alam was brain behind it. Yunus called Alam on to the stage and gave him credit for the operation. Alam has close ties with banned outfits.

Are you suggesting that Mahfuz Alam orchestrated the student-led uprising against the Sheikh Hasina's government?

Indeed, Muhammad Yunus himself publicly stated this in September in New York. This validates the fact the the regime change was premeditated. The anti-India rhetoric continues, branding Sheikh Hasina as pro-Delhi, thus fueling public anger against her party and India.

Why is the interim government perpetuating anti-India sentiment even after Sheikh Hasina's removal?
The ideology behind the regime change seeks to establish a government inherently opposed to India, effectively reversing the progress made since 1971. When Sheikh Hasina left the country on August 5, the regime immediately targeted minorities and aimed to dismantle pro-India policies. Violent attacks followed, prompting PM Narendra Modi to call for protection of minorities. The regime seeks to establish an Islamist government, undermining the values of 1971, Bengali nationalism, secularism, and social justice. Their goal appears to be a governance model rooted in Sharia law.

Do you see Pakistan's influence in the recent developments in Bangladesh?
Pakistan has played a significant role in the regime-change operation, strengthening its ties with the Bangladeshi army. Historically, these links were weak earlier during Sheikh Hasina government, but have grown stronger recently in the wake of coup. Pakistan's objective is to reverse the historical outcomes of 1971 by influencing Bangladesh's political trajectory.

Do you think Bangladesh is on a path to self-destruction?
Yes, the interim government under Muhammad Yunus is steering Bangladesh towards self-destruction. Yunus effectively operates through Mahfuz Alam. The regime's policies are pushing minorities, who make up 9% of the population, out of the country. Despite relentless attacks, minority communities, particularly Hindus, are standing firm, choosing to stay and fight for their rights. Over 1,000 attacks by Islamist groups have been reported, but the regime has termed these as non-communal violence. Such denials highlight the regime's negligence in protecting minorities, which is unprecedented in Bangladesh's history. The younger generation of minorities remains resolute, demanding legal protections and refusing to leave their homeland. However, the communal divide is eroding Bangladesh's social fabric.

Do you foresee any possibility of Bangladesh merging with Pakistan?
While Pakistan may harbor such ambitions, the people of Bangladesh are unlikely to support this. They demand elections and prefer to maintain their independence, although current relations between Bangladesh and Pakistan seem to be growing closer.

How do you evaluate India's approach toward the ongoing crisis in Bangladesh?
India has handled the situation with diplomatic prudence. Offering shelter to Sheikh Hasina aligns with India's tradition of neutrality and humanitarianism.

Additionally, India has taken a balanced approach in addressing the violence against minorities, emphasizing measured diplomacy over overt intervention.

MEA says in touch with Damascus for safety of Indians living in Syria

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

A day after rebel forces overthrew President Bashar Assad's government in Syria, India on Monday said that it is monitoring the unfolding developments in the Arab nation and advocated a peaceful and inclusive political process in the country.

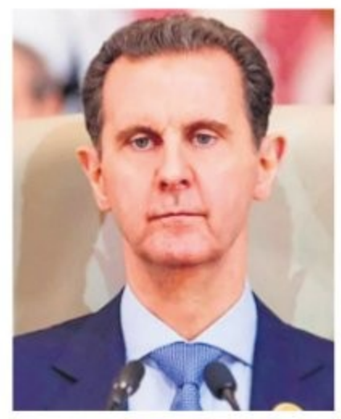
The Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) said the Indian embassy in Damascus is in contact with the Indian community in Syria for their safety. There are around 90 Indian nationals in Syria, including 14 working in various UN organisations.

Hours after the rebels captured power, official sources in Delhi on Sunday said all Indian nationals in Syria are safe.

"We are monitoring the situation in Syria in the light of ongoing developments. We underline the need for all parties to work towards preserving the unity, sovereignty and territorial integrity of Syria," the MEA said.

"We advocate a peaceful and inclusive Syrian-led political process respecting the interests and aspirations of all sections of Syrian society," it said.

On Saturday, India had issued an advisory for its citizens living in Syria and also urged others to drop any travel plans to the country. "In view of the situation prevailing in Syria, Indian nationals are advised to avoid all travel to Syria, until further notification. Indians currently in Syria are requested to remain in touch with Indian Embassy in Damascus," said the MEA advisory.



Delhi calls for unity, territorial integrity

India has joined leading nations to call for stability and preserve the unity and territorial integrity of the Arab nation. Russian state media reported that Assad is in Moscow and has been given asylum. Many countries have welcomed fall of the nearly 14-year-long Assad regime that witnessed civil strife across Syria.

Soros vs Adani row paralyses House

PREETHA NAIR AND RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

UPROAR over BJP's allegations linking top Congress leaders with US-based billionaire investor George Soros-funded organisations involved in "anti-India" activities rocked both houses of Parliament which failed to transact any legislative business on Monday.

The BJP intensified its attack on the Congress leadership, demanding Sonia Gandhi disclose her role in a Soros Foundation-funded organisation, and ruling party chief JP Nadda called for a discussion in the Rajya Sabha on the issue, asserting it is a matter of internal and external security.

The Congress dismissed the allegations, accusing the BJP of putting at stake India's ties with another country to divert attention from the charges against Gautam Adani, and continued its protests for a JPC probe against the business tycoon. The noisy protests in the Lok Sabha, which also saw opposition members submitting notices to move a privilege motion against BJP member Nishikant Dubey for remarks against Leader of the Opposition Rahul Gandhi, led to repeated adjournments till 3 pm before the proceedings were called off for the day.

Opposition members were in the well when the Lok Sabha convened at 11 am and an upset Speaker Om Birla adjourned the proceedings till noon.

"Question Hour is significant. Allow the House to function properly. But you don't want to allow the House to run. The country wants the House to run," he said before adjourning the proceedings.

In Rajya Sabha, members of treasury benches raised slogans and demanding answers from the Congress over reports of alleged links with Soros, triggering protests from opposition. The House was adjourned amid uproar with Chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar cautioning that the "functioning of the deep state affects us more perniciously than the Covid disease."

BJP move to discuss Soros sparks RS chaos

PRRETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

THE Rajya Sabha witnessed chaos after Leader of House JP Nadda said BJP members were agitated Congress leaders' links with George Soros Foundation and wanted a discussion, but Opposition members rejected the allegation.

"The link between the Forum of Democratic Leaders in the Asia-Pacific (FDL-AP) and Soros is a matter of concern. Its co-president is a member of this House," he said.

LoP Mallikarjun Kharge asked how the chairman was allowing the BJP members to raise the issue when he had rejected their notices in this regard. Congress member Jairam Ramesh said that when the Chair has rejected notices under Rule 267, the issues mentioned therein should not be allowed to be raised.

SC seeks details on property burnt, asks Manipur govt to file action taken report

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

NINETEEN months after a brutal and horrific ethnic violence between the Meitei and Kuki-zo communities erupted in Manipur, the Supreme Court on Monday sought a sealed cover report from the state government regarding the properties burnt, looted, trespassed and encroached upon, along with the details of name and address of the owner and who is occupying it at the moment.

A two-judge bench of CJI Sanjiv Khanna and Justice Sanjay Kumar said the state government's report hall also apprised it as to what steps it had already taken or would take to prosecute the accused persons who have trespassed, destroyed, burnt, looted, and encroached upon properties during the violence period.

In August 2023, the then CJI D Y Chandrachud-led bench set up a committee led by Justice Gita Mittal (retd) to supervise "diverse aspects of a humanitarian nature" in Manipur.

During the hearing on Monday, the top court asked the Manipur state government to respond to the issue of releasing funds for temporary and permanent housing as flagged by Justice Gita Mittal Committee. While asking senior advocate Vibha Makhija, representing the Justice Gita Mittal Committee, as to whether the Committee has been able to prepare a list of properties that have been destroyed, the apex fixed the matter for further hearing after January 20, 2025.

Makhija confirmed that a list was in place. Accordingly, CJI Khanna directed the Manipur government to submit three lists to the court. Pleas sought directions for restoration of peace for the perpetrators.

Job market ready: UGC guidelines on higher edu, formal qualifications soon

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

IN a bid to integrate informal and formal learning, the University Grants Commission (UGC) will come out with draft guidelines on Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL).

The guidelines will help to access higher education, earn formal qualifications and improve job chances.

UGC Chairman, Prof. M. Jagadesh Kumar said, "We must address the challenges faced by India's large informal workforce, which requires formal education and career progression opportunities. Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is integral to the vision of The National Education Policy 2020."

He said RPL allows individuals to gain formal recognition for skills and competencies acquired through informal, non-formal, or experiential learning. In its meeting on November 14, the commission approved the draft, which will soon be made public for feedback.

Recognition of Prior Learning

- RPL to help acquire a formal qualification that matches competencies (knowledge, skills, and abilities)
- Allows to gain recognition for skills acquired through informal, non-formal, or experiential learning
- Aims to provide a route for individuals with traditional skills, especially artists, to gain formal qualifications
- Integrates diverse learning outcomes into the assessment process, ensuring they are recognised and accredited

The National Credit Framework (NCrF) supports RPL by facilitating the creditisation of all learning forms—academic, vocational, and experiential.

"To enable individuals to convert their skills into qualifications, RPL helps bridge the gap between real-world experience and formal education and enhance career prospects. It contributes to economic growth, social inclusion, and a more skilled workforce," Kumar said. The guidelines also emphasise robust governance, quality assurance, and collaboration to ensure fairness, consistency, and inclusivity while implementing RPL.

"This UGC's initiative aligns with NEP 2020's goal of promoting a holistic and equitable education system," the UGC Chairman further said.

The RPL process can help individuals acquire a formal qualification that matches their competencies (knowledge, skills, and abilities), thereby improving their employability, mobility, lifelong learning, and self-esteem. The draft also said that industry bodies have emphasized the significance of RPL and advocate for a flexible and innovative approach within the framework of the National Credit Framework.

PM pitches Rising Raj to investors

'Receptive and resilient' desert state has ability to create new opportunities, says Modi

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

INAUGURATING the Rising Rajasthan Global Investment Summit here on Monday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said the immense potential of the desert state acts as a magnet for investments. He praised the state's unique ability to adapt and grow, even in challenging conditions. "Rajasthan has a unique quality of learning and enhancing its own capabilities. It is because of this spirit that even in its sandy dunes, trees bear fruits."

The PM praised the Rajasthan government, led by CM Bhajanlal Sharma, for its proactive approach to development. Highlighting the 'R factor' associated with the state, Modi said, "Rajasthan is not only rising but also reliable. It is receptive and knows how to refine itself with time. Rajasthan symbolises resilience and the ability to create new opportunities. Today, the people of Rajasthan have formed a responsive and reformative government with a huge majority."

The PM highlighted the achievements of his government with captains of industry, including Gautam Adani, Kumar Mangalam Birla, Anil Agarwal and Anand Mahindra, hailing Modi's leadership. The PM said the world's investors are upbeat about India as an investment destination, and the country's economic success has showcased the true power of democracy, demography, digital data, and delivery.

Former CM Vasundhara Raje said, "Industrialists have shown their faith in Rajasthan. The Prime Minister has laid out a blueprint, and I believe this is just the beginning. With sustained efforts, Rajasthan will reach new heights."

In his welcome address, CM Sharma announced that the government had already signed MoUs worth ₹35 lakh crore ahead of the event. The first day of the summit has seen MoUs signed for investment proposals worth ₹30 lakh crore. Sharma assured that these investments would directly benefit the people.

He added, "We organised this summit in the first year of our government to ensure these investments materialize on the ground in four years." Shama said his government's target was to double Rajasthan's gross state domestic product to $350 billion in five years.

The opposition Congress raised concerns about the actual implementation of these agreements. Former CM Ashok Gehlot said, "The arrival of industrialists and their signing of MoUs is one thing, but translating these into ground-level investments is another."

Didi takes 'lollipop' jibe at BNP's claim over Bengal, Bihar

SULAGNA SENGUPTA @ Kolkata

WEST Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Monday reacted strongly to statements by a section of Bangladeshi politicians that Bangladesh has legitimate claims over Bengal, Bihar and Odisha. Calling the statements absurd, she said, "you will occupy Bengal, Bihar, and Odisha, and we will have lollipops?"

Addressing the Assembly, Banerjee condemned the circulation of certain fake videos on this side of the border and blamed a certain political party for attempting to stoke tensions in the state. In a recent public meeting in Dhaka, a BNP leader had said that Bangladesh has legitimate claims over Bengal, Bihar and Odisha.

The CM condemned the persecution of minorities in Bangladesh, calling it unacceptable, and stressed the need for unity among India's religious communities. Asking people to remain calm and not get swayed by provocative statements made by some people in Bangladesh, she said, "In our state, even imams have condemned the comments and attacks on minorities in Bangladesh."

Asking everyone, including her political rivals, not to do anything that might aggravate the situation, she also urged media houses to act responsibly while commenting on the situation in the neighbouring country. "West Bengal is the first state where people irrespective of caste, creed or community staged collective protest against the situation in Bangladesh," the CM said.

She said her government and party will follow the Centre's guidelines and will not speak out of turn. "Our foreign secretary is in Bangladesh for talks. Let us not speak more than what is required. Let us wait for the outcome. We are responsible citizens. Our country is united," she said.

Nadda to review Sai govt's 1st yr performance

As the BJP government, led by Vishnu Deo Sai, prepares to complete one year in Chhattisgarh this week, it presents an opportunity for the party to evaluate its performance and accomplishments. Party president J P Nadda will be in Raipur on December 13, when CM Sai took oath, to release a report card to mark a year of the state government. The BJP national organisation has decided to review the working of the governments in different states. All the ministers have been asked to get ready with the details of their accomplishments. The state government will elucidate the report of every department.

'Intent to Invest' letter to 27 industrial groups

CM Vishnu Deo Sai has offered 'Intent to Invest' letters to 27 major industrial groups creating scope for an investment of ₹32,225 crore as proposed new capital under the new Industrial Development Policy. These include investments in the core sector besides the new thriving fields like information technology, AI, data centres, electronics, and electrically compressed biogas. With the state having vast reserves of minerals, the investors were promised a favourable industrial environment under the new policy that has removed every possible complexity for investment.

Diljit invokes Indori's poem to silence protest

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

PUNJABI singer Diljit Dosanjh performed live in Indore on Sunday evening amid protests against the concert by VHP and Bajrang Dal men.

Diljit used Indore's famous Urdu poet Rahat Indori's poem to silence all those opposing the concert, including the controversy surrounding black marketing of the ticket. "Kisi ke baap ka Hindustan thodi hai... (India doesn't belong to a select few only)," he said.

VHP-Bajrang Dal men protested on Saturday and Sunday in Indore. They got support from two BJP MLAs of the city in their opposition to the concert. Two men were arrested on the eve of the concert.

"Our protests, particularly centred around sale of booze and non-veg food at the venue. We submitted to the administration visuals of the stalls and banners advertising the sale of booze, after which those stalls were removed. All our demands were met," VHP leaders said.

The Sunday concert was part of the Indian leg of Diljit's Dil-Luminati Tour. The next stop of the tour will be Chandigarh on December 14 and Guwahati on December 29.

Maha deadlock continues over portfolios, cabinet expansion in MahaYuti

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

AMID the deadlock over portfolio allocations among MahaYuti allies, Maharashtra deputy CM Eknath Shinde on Monday met Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis to press for home ministry, with other deputy CM Ajit Pawar insisting on finance ministry, sources said.

"Apart from the home ministry, Shinde has asked for revenue, urban development and PWD ministries. He argued that his party with 57 asse bly seats deserves 11 to 13 ministries," a Shiv Sena leader said.

He added the BJP should honour the position of Shinde. "Due to the efforts of Eknath Shinde as CM and his welfare schemes, the Mahayuti got the massive mandate of 230 seats in the 288-member assembly. If Ajit Pawar gets finance and Shinde saheb does not get home ministry, then it will send a wrong message to our cadre and people who voted for us. BJP is the world's largest party, so they should show the big heart to accommodate the alliance partners," he said.

Ajit Pawar is confident that considering his track record and the number of MLAs in his support, he should be given the finance ministry. "We demanded 10 ministries but BJP is offering only eight, so it will be difficult to accommodate our leaders. BJP should first clear its stand over portfolio allocations, then we will hold meetings and resolve the matter," Pawar said.

Political observers said portfolio allocations have been delayed. "The swearing-in ceremony took place on December 5 and it has been almost five days, still DCMs are functioning without portfolios. First, there was delay in the swearing-in ceremony of the chief minister and now portfolio allocations and cabinet expansion are still awaited," a political analyst said.

₹100 bribe, Sanjay Gandhi 'legacy' in Gujarat sterilisation potboiler

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

Gujarat bachelor lured for booze worth ₹100 and farm job, sterilized

A day filled with controversy unfolded in Gujarat as several political storms emerged over the sterilization issue. The situation began with a controversial remark from Dr. Ghanshyam Gadhvi, an Additional Health Officer in Mehsana, who made an "indecent" reference to the late Congress leader Sanjay Gandhi, brother of former PM late Rajiv Gandhi.

Gadhvi also claimed that the government sets targets for sterilizations, a statement that was dismissed by the state health minister. While speaking to the media on Monday, the health officer stated, "We do not want to conduct the sterilization campaign like Sanjay Gandhi did."

He emphasised, "Our approach is based on consent and cou seling. If someone voluntarily comes forward and requests sterilization, we proceed only then. No procedure is done without explicit consent."

In response to his comments, the Congress party staged protests against Gadhvi and the government, escalating the situation further. Protesters raised slogans against him and submitted a memorandum to the District Development Officer, demanding his resignation. District Congress President Hasmukhbhai criticized Gadhvi, claiming he was using Sanjay Gandhi's name as a face-saving tactic while failing to address alleged false sterilization cases under his supervision.

In a related statement, Gadhvi reiterated that the government sets sterilization targets, further fueling the ongoing controversy. "Yes, targets are assigned," he said.

"In Sabarkantha alone, over 375 sterilizations were carried out, which surpassed the target. Similar targets are set across Gujarat because employees do not work effectively without them."

State Health Minister Hrishikesh Patel strongly r jected claims of a sterilization scam, stating, "Sterilization is not a scam. We do not set any goals or targets for officers, ensuring they are not pressured to meet them. It is entirely voluntary." However, an incident of forced sterilization emerged in Mehsana on December 5.

A 31-year-old unmarried man from Navi Sedhavi village was sterilized without his consent. He, who was scheduled to marry in a month, was allegedly lured by a health worker using ₹100 worth of alcohol and taken to Adalaj for the procedure.

Govt sets sterilisation targets, says Gadhvi

Gadhvi reiterated that the government sets sterilization targets, further fueling the ongoing controversy. "Yes, targets are assigned," he said. State Health Minister Hrishikesh Patel strongly r jected claims of a sterilization scam, stating, "Sterilization is not a scam. We do not set any goals or targets for officers, ensuring they are not pressured to meet them. It is entirely voluntary."

Row over HC judge's remarks on UCC, 'India will run as per wishes of majority'

NAMITA BAJPAI & PARVEZ SULTAN @ Lucknow/New Delhi

ALLAHABAD High Court judge Justice Shekhar Kumar Yadav's statements on the Uniform Civil Code (UCC) have sparked outrage in political circles and social media.

The main aim of the UCC was to promote social harmony, gender equality, and secularism, Justice Yadav said while addressing a convention of the Legal Cell and High Court Unit of the Vishva Hindu Parishad (VHP) in Library Hall of the Allahabad High Court in Prayagraj on Sunday. He stated that the country would run as per the wishes of the "Bahusankhayak" (majority) and that the UCC would soon become a reality.

Justice Yadav said that if the country was one, the Constitution was one, and the people were one then why couldn't the law be one, while mooting the idea for a UCC.

"I have no hesitation in saying that this is Hindustan... this country would function as per the wishes of the bahusankhyak (majority)... This is the Law," Justice Yadav said.

"... Only what benefits the welfare and happiness of the majority will be accepted," he said. "In our country where women are recognised as goddesses in the Shastras and the Vedas, you can't claim the right to have four wives, perform Halala, or practice Triple Talaq."

Justice Yadav attended the event where Waqf law, reasons and prevention of religious conversion were discussed. According to the VHP programme, Justice Dinesh Pathak, another judge of the Allahabad High Court, was slated to inaugurate the event by "lighting of lamps and blessings".

Justice Yadav addressed the topic — "Uniform Civil Code: A Constitutional Necessity" — saying his colleagues advised him to exercise caution while speaking on UCC, to which he said: "I am a judge of this high court, but I am also a citizen of this country, and I will say whatever is appropriate for a citizen and for this country".

Politicians, advocates and civil society called out Justice Yadav's statements as a direct attack on the Constitution.

SP leader Ramgopal Yadav brought in the RSS into the row sparked by the judge. "RSS has always been like that, they can do anything to get to the Supreme Court," he said.

CPM, TMC and Asadudduin Owaisi's AIMIM condemned Justice Yadav's remarks and labelled them divisive. They said his statements were inappropriate for a judge and reignited debates on judicial propriety.

Former MP and CPM Polit bureau member Brinda Karat has written to Chief Justice of India Sanjeev Khanna expressing grave concerns over speech made by Justice Yadav.

United colours of 1st day, 1st show in J'khand House

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

NOT only the sixth Jharkhand Assembly is different in many ways from the previous ones, but also newly elected MLAs reached the House in different styles on the first day of the special session on Monday — some were seen comming barefoot, some bowed head before entering the House, while many of them took oath in their regional language.

Jairam Mahto of Jharkhand Loktantrik Kranti Morcha (JKLM), who reached the House barefoot, bowed his head on the frame of the door before entering the Assembly. Jairam has been elected MLA for the first time from Dumri seat.

On the reason behind entering the House barefoot, Jairam said, "I am a farmer's son and just like a farm is for a farmer, Vidhan Sabha is for me. When we go to the farm, we go barefoot, therfore I have reached the House barefoot as well."

Though the JKLM could win only one seat, but has made its presence felt in the Northern and Southern Chotanagpur Divisions of Jharkhand. The party contested on 71 out of 81 seats and caused damage to both INDIA bloc and NDA.

Ghatsila MLA and School Education Minister Ramdas Soren took oath in Santhali language, Giridih legislator and Urban Development Minister Sudivya Kumar Sonu in Khortha, Jamtara MLA and Health Minister Irfan Ansari in Bengala and and Madhupur MLA and Water Resources Minister Hafizul Hasan in Urdu.

Agriculture and Animal Husbandry Department Minister Shilpi Neha Tirkey was seen holding the Constitution in her hand while taking oath as the MLA from Mandar.

Sixth Assembly is different in many ways from the previous one. This is the first assembly when the number of members of the ruling party is more than all the previous assemblies. This time 21 of the members that is one fourth are first-time MLAs. Four parties have single representation in the Assembly — one MLA each from JD(U), LJP (R), AJSU Party and JLKM. This is for the first time in 20 years that the Assembly does not have any independent member.

Moreover, the Assembly this time consists of 81 members, as the practice of nominating a representative from the Anglo-Indian community — historically designated as the 82nd member of the House — has been discontinued.

In the House, Chief Minister Hemant Soren took oath as MLA followed by 79 legislators. Earlier, Stephen Marandi was appointed the Protem Speaker. Marandi briefed members about the process of appointment of permanent Speaker.

There are 34 MLAs from the JMM, 21 from the BJP, 16 from the Congress, four from the RJD and two from the CPI(M-L) in the 81-member House.

Putin gives asylum to fugitive dictator Assad

DAMASCUS

OUSTED Syrian leader Bashar Assad fled to Moscow and received asylum from his longtime ally, Russian media said on Sunday, hours after a stunning rebel advance seized control of Damascus and ended his family's 50 years of iron rule.

The arrival of Assad and his family in Moscow was reported by Russian agencies Tass and RIA, citing an unidentified source at the Kremlin. RIA also said Syrian insurgents had guaranteed the security of Russian military bases and diplomatic posts in Syria.

Earlier, Russia said Assad left Syria after negotiations with rebel groups and that he had given instructions to transfer power peacefully. The leader of Syria's biggest rebel faction, Abu Mohammed al-Golani, is poised to chart the country's future. The former al-Qaida commander cut ties with the group years ago and says he embraces pluralism and religious tolerance. His Hayat Tahrir al-Sham group, or HTS, is considered a terrorist organisation by the US and the UN In his first public appearance since fighters entered the Damascus suburbs Saturday, al-Golani visited the Umayyad Mosque and described Assad's fall as "a victory to the Islamic nation." Calling himself by his given name, Ahmad al-Sharaa, and not his nom de guerre, he said Assad had made Syria "a farm for Iran's greed." The rebels face the daunting task of healing bitter divisions in a country ravaged by war and split among armed factions. Turkey-backed opposition fighters are battling US-allied Kurdish forces in the north, and the IS group is still active in remote areas. Rebel commander Anas Salkhadi appeared on state TV and sought to reassure religious and ethnic minorities, saying: "Syria is for everyone, no exceptions. Syria is for Druze, Sunnis, Alawites, and all sects." "We will not deal with people the way the Assad family did," he added. Meanwhile Syria's prime minister said on Monday that most cabinet ministers are still working from offices in Damascus. Streams of refugees crossed back into Syria from neighbouring countries.T

The rebel command said they would not tell women how to dress. Some key government services had shut down as state workers ignored calls to return to their jobs, a UN official said. AP

Israel strikes chemical weapons sites in Syria

JERUSALEM

ISRAELI Foreign Minister Gideon Saar said on Monday that his country had struck "chemical weapons" in neighbouring Syria.

Speaking at a press conference, Saar said "we attacked strategic weapon systems like, for example, remaining chemical weapons or long-range missiles and rockets in order that they will not fall in the hands of extremists".

Saar said Israel was monitoring the actions of the rebels, adding: "The steps we took, the only interest we have is the security of Israel and its citizens."

Israeli media reported on Friday that the military had struck a chemical weapons cache in Syria.

The Syrian Observatory for Human Rights, a Britain-based monitor, said on Monday the Israeli military conducted overnight strikes on multiple locations spanning coastal and southern Syria.

"Since the initial hours after the announcement of the fall of the former regime, Israel began launching intensive air strikes, deliberately destroying weapons and ammunitions depots," it said.

Photos on Monday showed damage at Mazzeh military airport on the outskirts of Damascus, including destroyed helicopters and jets, where the Israeli military struck nearby weapons depots.

Since Syria's civil war erupted in 2011, Israel has carried out hundreds of strikes in the country, mainly targeting the army and Iran-backed groups.

Israel rarely comments on individual strikes in Syria but has repeatedly said it will not allow Iran to expand its presence in the country. AFP

Israel says buffer zone capture is temporary

Jerusalem: Israel's Foreign Minister Gideon Saar said Monday that his country's military takeover of the buffer zone along its border with Syria was a "limited and temporary step". "This is a limited and temporary step we took for security reasons," Saar said in a press conference at the foreign ministry in Jerusalem. Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu announced on Sunday that he had ordered the army to "take control" of the zone after the fall of Syrian president Bashar Al-Assad. In 1974 a buffer zone was established with UN peacekeepers stationed there. AFP

Families search for their loved ones in Saydnaya jail basement, dungeons

DAMASCUS

SYRIAN rescuers searched a jail synonymous with the worst atrocities of ousted president Bashar al-Assad's rule, as people in the capital flocked to a central square to celebrate their country's freedom.

On Monday, rescuers from the Syrian White Helmets group said they were searching for potential secret doors or basements in Saydnaya prison, though they said there was no immediate sign that anyone was trapped.

"We are working with all our energy to reach a new hope, and we must be prepared for the worst," the organisation said in a statement, urging families of the missing to have "patience".

Aida Taha, aged 65, said she had been "roaming the streets like a madwoman" in search of her brother, who was arrested in 2012. "We've been oppressed long enough, we want our children back," she said.

During the offensive launched on Nov 27, rebels wrested city from Assad's control, opening the gates of prisons along the way and freeing thousands of people, many of them held on political charges. Social media groups were alight with Syrians sharing images of detainees reportedly brought out from the dungeons, in a collective effort to reunite families with their newly released loved ones, some of whom had been missing for years. AFP

Historic opportunity, says Biden

WASHINGTON

THE fall of the Assad regime century is a historic opportunity for the people of the country, outgoing US President Joe Biden said on Sunday.

Biden spoke at the White House hours after rebel groups took over the country following more than a dozen years of violent civil war and decades of leadership by Bashar Assad and his family. "After 13 years of civil war in Syria and more than half a century of brutal authoritarian rule by Bashar Assad and his father before him, rebel forces have forced Assad to resign his office and flee the country. We're not sure where he is, but there's word that he's in Moscow. At long last, the Assad regime has fallen," Biden said.

"This regime brutalised, tortured and killed hundreds of thousands of innocent Syrians. The fall of the regime is a fundamental act of justice. It's a moment of historic opportunity for the long-suffering people of Syria to build a better future for their proud country,' he said. It is also a moment of risk, uncertainty, Biden said. PTI

Das leaves behind rich legacy in policy making

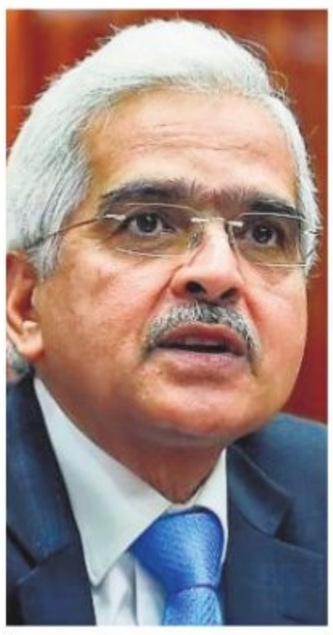
Das was not taken seriously in initial years by many for being 'history graduate', but proved them wrong with his deft handling of crises

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

SHAKTIKANTA DAS, who demits office as the 25th governor of the Reserve Bank of India on December 10 completing One of the longest governorships, leaves behind a legacy marked by his deft crisis management skill, steady policy-making, and an unflinching focus on the nation's economic and financial stability even as he fought many a battle, both domestic as well as external, from day one.

Das was not taken seriously in his initial years by many for being a "history graduate", but has proved all them wrong soon with his deft handling of one crisis after another — as is evidenced in his bagging the prestigious central banker of the year award twice in a row.

One of the most salient features of his six-year term as the governor was his lucid but firm communication to the markets and bankers on key issues concerning the central bank and the entities under its watch. Soon after taking charge, Das, the Tamil Nadu cadre IAS officer hailing from Odisha, has provided confidence to the market shaken by the sudden resignation of Urjit Patel amid a tussle between the RBI and the government over the issue of RBI surplus transfer and a host of other issues which got into recurring public spats.



Soft-talker but a clear task master

- One of the salient features of Shaktikanta Das' six-year term as governor was his lucid but firm communication to markets and bankers on key issues
- He imprpoved communication between RBI and other key stakeholders
- Das is second-longest serving governor in RBI's 90-year history
- Das took office on Dec 12, 2018, after his predecessor Urjit Patel's resignation
- He bagged the prestigious central banker of the year award twice in a row
- Das proved himself to be a seasoned civil servant in handling the monetary affairs, specifically his firm stance on controlling inflation

At the last presser after the monetary policy announcement on December 6, Das sidestepped repeated questions from the press on a third term, saying "I am not giving you any headlines." Maybe he knew the mind of the government.

Das took office on December 12, 2018, for a three-year term after his predecessor Urjit Patel announced his resignation mid-way through his three-year tumultuous term on December 10. In December 2021, the government gave him a three-year extension, making him the second longest serving governor in its 90-year history after Benegal Rama Rau who had a 7.5-year-term in the 1950s.

The career bureaucrat-turned-central banker proved himself to be a very seasoned civil servant in handling the many pulls and pressures from the government, and had in his last monetary announcement made it clear that the RBI/MPC is only following the Parliamentary mandate of managing inflation, making it clear that its effort is to keep the inflation horse on tight leash and left the key rates unchanged for the 11th time.

Air India places order for 100 more Airbus aircraft

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

TATA Group-run Air India said on Monday it has placed an order to buy 100 more Airbus aircraft, comprising 10 widebody A350 and 90 narrowbody A320 aircraft, including A321neo. These 100 new aircraft are in addition to orders of 470 aircraft that Air India had placed with Airbus and Boeing last year.

The latest order takes the total number of aircraft that Air India ordered with Airbus in 2023 from 250 aircraft, comprising 40 A350 and 210 A320 family aircraft, to 350. With the order for 100 additional aircraft, it currently has 344 new aircraft incoming from Airbus, having received six A350s so far. Air India in 2023 had placed orders for 220 widebody and narrowbody aircraft with Boeing, of which 185 aircraft yet to be delivered. The airline had then said it has the option to expand its firm order of 470 planes by an additional 370 planes.

The fresh order by Air India with Airbus comes as it is struggling to get deliveries of Boeing planes on time. Air India CEO and MD Campbell Wilson late last month said that they experiencing delays from Boeing due to a strike at the aircraft manufacturer's U.S. factory. Wilson revealed that the delivery of 50 "white tail" aircraft, initially expected to be completed by December this year, has been pushed to June 2025. Additionally, Airbus is also facing supply chain-related issues and earlier this year had cut its delivery guidance. The company expects to hand over 770 aircraft this year, down from a previous goal of 800.

Natarajan Chandrasekaran, Chairman of Tata Sons and Air India said that these additional 100 Airbus aircraft will help to position Air India on the path to greater growth and contribute to their mission of building Air India into a world-class airline that connects India to every corner of the world. Air India also said it has selected Airbus' Flight Hour Services-Component (FHS-C) to support the maintenance requirements of its growing A350 fleet.

Having witnessed formidable growth of the Indian aviation sector in recent months, glad to see Air India renew its trust in Airbus with additional order for A320 and A350 aircraft — Guillaume Faury, Airbus CEO

Space technology start-up Pixxel raises $24 million in fresh funding

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

US-India-based space technology company Pixxel has closed $24 million in additional funding as part of its Series B round. This new investment brings the total Series B funding to $60 million. With this, Pixxel, which is backed by Google, Lightspeed, Radical Ventures, Accenture, and others, has raised a total of $95 million across all funding rounds to date.

M&G Catalyst and Glade Brook Capital Partners joined as new investors in the Series B extension round. Also, with this new funding, Pixxel has become one of the highest-funded space-tech start-ups in the country and the highest-funded hyperspectral imaging company globally. The funds will enable Pixxel to accelerate the development and launch of its entire constellation of 18 commercial hyperspectral satellites planned for the near future. The funds will drive Pixxel's plans to expand its satellite manufacturing capacity, scale its operations for upcoming missions, and enhance its capability to provide a full spectrum of satellite manufacturing services—from small satellites to advanced imaging payloads for other organisations and governments, the company said on Monday.

"The new infusion of capital will help us launch more satellites quicker, transforming how humanity understands and acts on the challenges of our time," said Awais Ahmed, Founder and CEO of Pixxel.

Monthly retail passenger vehicle sales declined 33% in November: FADA

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

RETAIL passenger vehicle (PV) sales in November 2024 declined by 33.37% month-on-month and 13.72% year-on-year, totalling 321,943 units. The drop in demand followed the festive season. In October 2024, retail PV sales had reached 483,159 units, according to data from the Federation of Automobile Dealers Associations (FADA).

"The PV segment faced headwinds, with sales falling 33.37% MoM and 13.72% YoY. Dealers cited weak market sentiment, limited product variety and insufficient new launches, compounded by the shift of festive demand into October. Although rural interest was present, it failed to significantly improve sentiment," said FADA President C S Vigneshwar.

He said inventory levels have reduced by about 10 days, but continue to remain high at around 65-68 days. FADA urged OEMs to further rationalize inventory so that the industry can enter the new year on a healthier footing, reducing the need for additional discounts.

Vigneshwar stated that November was initially expected to build on its prior momentum, particularly due to the marriage season. However, dealer feedback suggests that this segment underperformed overall expectations.

"Although rural markets offered some support, primarily in the two-wheeler category, marriage-related sales remained subdued. The late occurrence of Deepawali at the end of October also caused a spill-over of festive registrations into November, affecting the month's sales trajectory," added Vigneshwar.

Inventory levels decline

FADA President C S Vigneshwar said inventory levels have reduced by about 10 days, but continue to remain high at around 65-68 days. FADA urged OEMs to further rationalize inventory so that the industry can enter the new year on a healthier footing, reducing the need for additional discounts.

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

VODAFONE IDEA (VIL), the country's third-largest telecom service provider, announced on Monday that its Board of Directors has approved the issuance of up to 176 crore equity shares on a preferential basis to raise ₹1,980 crore.

The telco will issue these shares to Omega Telecom Holdings Private Limited (₹1,280 crore) and Usha Martin Telematics Limited (₹700 crore), both Vodafone Group companies. The shares will be issued at a price of ₹11.28 per share, which represents a premium of nearly 40% over the closing price of ₹8.11 on December 9, 2024. "Up to 1,755,319,148 equity shares of face value of ₹10 each at an issue price of ₹11.28 per equity share (including a premium of ₹1.28 per equity share) for an aggregate consideration of up to ₹1,980 crore," said the company in a stock exchange filing.

Vodafone Group holds a 22.56% stake in VIL, while the Aditya Birla Group holds 14.76%. The government is the largest shareholder with a 23.15% stake. The telco will convene an extraordinary general meeting to seek shareholder approval for the preferential issue. Last week, the parent company of VIL, Vodafone Group, announced sale of its remaining 3% stake in Indus Towers for over $300 million (approximately ₹2,540 cr) in a block deal.

Lenskart to invest ₹1,500 cr in Telangana facility

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

EYEWEAR major Lenskart will set up the largest eyewear manufacturing facility in Telangana with an investment of nearly ₹1,500 crore.

This new facility will create 2,100 jobs. Telangana IT minister Duddilla Sridhar Babu on X announced that an MoU has been signed with Lenskart and that the facility will produce eyewear, lenses, sunglasses, as well as accessories and other products catering to India, along with exports to other markets in Southeast Asia and the Middle East.

"The facility will be established at Fab City, where land has already been identified and will be handed over to the company this week," he said on X.

Lenskart had originally sought land for a mega factory near Bengaluru in April. In a post on social media, the company's co-founder and CEO Peyush Bansal requested for land near Bengaluru airport and immediately Karnataka Industries Minister MB Patil had responded saying Karnataka is the ideal destination and that the department is committed to supporting and facilitating all your requirements.

But the state missed the opportunity as Lenskart will now set up the facility in Telangana.

Meanwhile, on Monday, minister Patil refuted the charges of Karnataka's loss and said that the government of Karnataka, under his leadership as the industries minister, has always prioritised fostering a business-friendly environment balanced with responsible fiscal management.

"However, as custodians of taxpayers' resources, we are committed to making prudent decisions that maximize long-term benefits for both the state and its people. Incentives by a state govt. are provided only to reduce the burden on investors and increase financial viability of the project. However, more recently, certain investors have been asking for incentives amounting to 100% of their investment," he said.

Adani's Krishnapatnam Port gets nod to import petroleum products till 2026

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

THE government on Monday permitted Krishnapatnam Port in Andhra Pradesh, operated by Adani Ports and Special Economic Zone Limited (APSEZ), to import petroleum products by sea.

As per a notification from the Ministry of Ports, Shipping, and Waterways, the port is authorised to import crude oil from August 25, 2024, to March 1, 2026. The ministry stated that this decision aims to meet the growing demand for petroleum products in the country, as the import of these products is considered essential for the public interest.

The all-weather, deep-water port, managed by Adani Krishnapatnam Port, is one of the key ports on India's east coast. It has obtained the necessary NSPC certification to ensure navigational safety for such operations.

India is the world's third-largest consumer of crude oil, with an import dependency exceeding 85%. As per the Petroleum Planning & Analysis Cell (PPAC) of the Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas, India's total net oil and gas imports in value terms for the April-October 2024 period amounted to $79.3 billion, up from $69.2 billion during the same period in 2023.

Between April and October 2024, the value of petroleum product imports increased by 8.5% year-on-year to $14.1 billion, while exports of petroleum products declined by nearly 7% to $25.4 billion.

Currently, under the Petroleum Rules, 2002, certain ports are designated for import and export of petroleum products, including Mumbai, Kolkata, Cochin, Haldia, Kandla, Chennai, Mangalore, Marmugao, Okha, Port Blair, Visakhapatnam, and Tuticorin. These ports are officially recognised and subject to specific regulations. Additionally, some non-notified ports such as JNPT, Vadinar, Ennore, Paradeep, Hazira, Kakinada, Dabhol, Pipavav, Dahej, Mundra, and Jogeshwar Jetty (District Baruch), have been granted permission by the Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas to handle petroleum product imports.

BIMA SAKHI: LIC SETS ASIDE ₹840 CR IN 1ST YEAR; TO ENROLL 1L WOMEN

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Panipat

STATE-owned Life Insurance Corporation (LIC) has set aside ₹840 core in the first year for the Bima Sakhi scheme, launched by Prime minister Narendra Modi on Monday. The scheme will train 2 lakh women to become LIC insurance agent over the next three years.

LIC targets to enroll 1 lakh women as Bima Sakhi in the first year of the scheme, LIC chairman Siddhartha Mohanty told media here after the launch of the scheme. Under the scheme, women agents would be given a fixed stipend each month for the next three years. In the first year, the monthly stipend would be ₹7,000 a month. In the second and third year, monthly stipend would be ₹6,000 and ₹5,000 a month, respectively.

Apart from a fixed stipend, each Bima Sakhi would earn a commission on each policy sold by them. Mohanty said each Bima Sakhi would be required to sell at least 2 policies a month or 24 policies a year. However, he didn't clarify if they fail to fulfill the condition, the stipend will be held back. Mohanty said LIC expects 5-10 times premium income of total amount they would invest in training and stipend of Bima Sakhis. On completion of 3 years, Bima Sakshis will be able graduate to development agent after appearing for an exam.

Agents to get stipend

Women agents will get stipend each month for next 3 years. In 1st year, stipend will be ₹7,000 a month. In 2nd and third year, stipend will be ₹6,000 and ₹5,000 a month, respectively.

IMPORT LICENCE

Govt may extend laptop, PC import deadline beyond Dec 31

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government is likely to extend the deadline of the import authorisation scheme for laptop and personal computers beyond December 31, 2024, said a senior government official.

According to officials, the Commerce Ministry is expected to issue a notification shortly to announce the extension. "The government is not looking to cause disruption — no disruption has been caused so far through import authorisation scheme," he said. India launched an import management system in November 2023, which required companies to register with the government the quantity and value of their laptop and tablet imports. Before this, on August 4, the government had announced ban on laptops, personal computers and tablets. Later in the day, it had clarified that there was no ban but electronics manufacturing companies needed a licence or required to register on import management system to import these items starting November 1, 2023.

The government said the purpose of the decision was to encourage the companies to start production in India. However, the reports indicate India reversed the laptop licensing policy following lobbying from US officials concerned about New Delhi's compliance with WTO obligations and potential new regulations.

Then India extended the deadline for approving imports of servers, laptops, PCs and tablets from September 30 to December 31. It means, electronics companies like Dell, HP, Apple, Samsung and Lenovo will need to obtain fresh approvals to import laptops and tablets in India starting next year, as per a government notification. As per Counterpoint estimates, India's laptop and personal computer market is valued at $8 billion annually.

Fulton, @ Euro 24286, highest paid foreign coach in Olympic sports

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

GOING by the sports ministry's response in the Rajya Sabha, Craig Fulton is the highest paid foreign coach engaged by a National Sports Federation. Fulton, the sports ministry revealed while replying to a query on engagement of foreign coaches, draws an amount of Euro 24,286 (₹21.7 lakh) a month. The head coach of the men's team has been drawing the salary since April 26, 2023 and his contract runs until December 31, 2028, after the Los Angeles Olympics. As for the 'expenditure incurred', the ministry says, "The National Sports Federations (NSFs) are allowed to hire foreign experts on their own within the budget allocated by the Government."

The South African's contract was extended after India's bronze medal at the Paris Olympics. Interestingly, Fulton draws double the amount any other foreign coach engaged in the country draws. Fulton's predecessor Graham Reid was getting US$15,000 per month. Union Sports Minister Mansukh Mandviya was responding to a query by Rajya Sabha MP Anil Kumar Yadav Mandadion December 5. While it is not clear since when Fulton has been drawing this amount, it is understood this could be after the Paris Olympics.

Take for instance Klaus Bartonietz, the German bio-mechanic specialist who has helped Neeraj Chopra win multiple medals (gold and silver) at successive Olympics and World Championships. The foreign coach was drawing $10,101 (₹8.57 lakh) per month. He has been attached with Neeraj since his injury in 2019. Meanwhile, Scott Simmons, the middle and long distance coach, was drawing more $11,364 (₹9.64 lakh) per month. At $10,732 per month, Jason Dawson, sprints coach, was drawing more than Klaus. Athletics had engaged some ten foreign coaches, masseurs and recovery experts. One Dr Silva, a recovery expert, was drawing $10,000. Most of their contracts, according to the Rajya Sabha reply, were until Olympic 2024. South Korean coach Baek Woongki, who felt humiliated for not being given accreditation to accompany the archers inside the Games Village at the Paris Olympics, was drawing $10,000 (₹8.43 lakh) per month. The coach left after the Paris Games where the players missed his expertise and had to rely on Indian coaches.

If athletics engaged some ten coaches and experts, hockey topped the charts. Over a period of three-four years, they have engaged about a dozen foreign experts, including coaches. The salary increased too. According to the table presented in the Rajya Sabha, there has been an increase in salary for the new set of support staff of Fulton. Take for instance Rhett Halkett, analytical coach, whose contract runs until December 31 (from April 2023) is getting paid $11428.57 (₹9.7 lakh) per month.Earlier, when Reid was the head coach, his analytical coach was drawing $9000 per month. Scientific advisor to the men's team Alan Tan is drawing $9000 and his contract runs until the end of the year. The Hockey India and SAI will be appointing a new analytical coach soon and it needs to be seen if Tan will continue. Dave Smolenaars, analytical coach for women's team is getting $10,000/month from April this year to Dec 2028.

Former High Performance Director (HPD) in boxing Bernard Dunne who had to leave mid-way because of a tussle between the Boxing Federation of India and him. Dunne was getting Euro 11250 (₹10 lakh). Interestingly, the Rajya Sabha reply says he was paid till September 2024 whereas he left India in February/March. The sport has fired blanks at the Paris Olympics. Badminton, another sport that went blank at Paris, engaged around eight coaches in the last two-three years until the Olympics. Highest paid among them were Park Tae Sang, Agus Dwi Santoso and Mathias Boe were paid $10,000 per month.

LIREN MAKES PERFECT MOVES

The reigning world champion comes back strong to level score 6-6 against Gukesh in Game 12

After D Gukesh's loss to Ding Liren on Monday, the World Chess Championship in Singapore will now go to the 14th game or even the tie-breaker if needed | FIDE

STRIKE back.

This was the two-word message Ding Liren's Team had prepared for him after Game 11 of the World Championship. Trailing 5-6 with just three games to go, his grip as the king of the world of chess was in danger of slipping away. On Monday evening, he showed the world why he became king in the first place. It also showed D Gukesh what it takes to become a world champion. This was 'peak Ding' as Anish Giri put it on commentary for chess24.

The world champion agreed. Well, kind of. In the post-game press conference, he called this 'the best game I have played in recent times'. It was a clinic from start to finish as the 32-year-old played perfect moves from gun to tape. He was so accurate the one time when he veered away from an exchange in the endgame, he found an even better move.

This was the Liren the world had seen and known for a long time before he won last year's title. At his best, he's a positional genius who slowly asphyxiates opponents. This version of the Chinese champion is dangerous because he can do two things at once — calculating precisely but also blitzing out moves if and when he's sure.

This is how he had managed to stay unbeaten in Classical games before the pandemic. It just looks like the world of chess had forgotten this Liren. After his loss on Sunday, Magnus Carlsen, during his recap with TakeTakeTake, had predicted that the Chinese would crumble. "Will Ding crumble now? I think that is by far the most likely scenario," he had said.

That take had aged like milk 90 minutes into the match.

The broad theme of the final is next to no action with Liren's White pieces. This game, to be fair, started of like that as the eval bar remained unenthused in the opening exchanges. If anything, Liren was pretty much off the book right from his second move after the 18-year-old played 1...e6. It wasn't an uncommon response but Liren spent more than three minutes. In the viewing gallery overlooking the playing hall, a few spectators eyed the clock nervously. "Hang on, what's going on," one of them whispered to their neighbour. Nothing major as it transpired. Liren wasn't prepared for this line so he was calculating other moves to push ahead. The computer gave a small advantage to Liren out of the opening but he was down on time.

Unlike in some of the earlier occasions, the Chinese's body language was markedly different. It felt like he was the one directing traffic, in control of the board. He was sitting upright in his office chair, not brooding over the board. Interestingly, he attributed some of his new-found confidence and energy to a cup of espresso before the game. "Today, I had a cup of coffee before the game, which helped me feel much more energetic. Also, I had some snacks to maintain my energy levels for the critical moment. I think I played a very good game and found some good moves."

When Gukesh resigned with seven moves for checkmate, the chess.com engine rated Liren's accuracy at 92.5% (Gukesh's was at 80%). Do not even for one moment think it was just 92.5. When you are starting a game with White, there is a natural in-build advantage of +0.3.

The first pivotal point came when the teen had made 10...h6 after a 15 minute think. A couple of moves later, he played 13...Rb8 which handed the 32-year-old a definitive edge. He planted a couple of branches worth of doubt in his opponent's head after playing 17...Qd2. "I wasn't sure what to do after Qd2," Gukesh said. He replied with Bg6 when a4 or Nc5 were the better moves per the engine. White's next move was always going to be d4 and this is what the Indian was trying to predict. With the position now pretty bad for Black, he tried to firefight from other squares but most of Gukesh's pieces were either in cold storage or in danger.

When you are trying to troubleshoot on the fly, you do run the risk of an inaccuracy. That point of no return came for Gukesh after 22...Bg5 as the engine jumped from +1.3 to +1.8. With snakes all over the board, Gukesh was only delaying the inevitable. And the final blow was administered.

Tuesday is a rest day

Problems aplenty as India hit nets on 'day 5' in Adelaide

GOMESH S @Chennai

BY the time the dawn breaks in India on Tuesday, Rohit Sharma and Co would be at the Adelaide Oval. Except, it will not be for the fifth day of the second Test against Australia — which is what it was supposed to be. Instead, they would be trying to answer some tough questions after the ten-wicket hammering they got here on Sunday during an intense training session in the first half of the day. Less than a week ago, they were ecstatic. A victory in Perth, led by Jasprit Bumrah, after the historic home series defeat should have given them a lot of confidence. However, it all seems to be back to square one in Adelaide. And it is only an indication of the underlying issues that go deeper than the results.

The first among them is whether Rohit Sharma should have batted in the middle-order? When he said that he was pushing himself down, it was a pragmatic decision not just for the team with a long-term viewpoint, but also an admission of his drop in form over the last two series. It was a gamble, a rather big one he took, but didn't work. Instead, it only brought him under more scrutiny and his long standing issue with the moving ball.

What was the alternative then? One of them was Rohit opening and Rahul batting at No 3 after his top-order success, with Shubman Gill going down to No 5. It looks good on paper, but perhaps the team management did not want to move Gill up and down after the youngster asked to bat at No 3 and had his best year yet in the longest format. Altering his position might not have done much good.

So, Rohit and head coach Gautam Gambhir went in with what was their best batting line-up and best spinner, and yet fell flat. While there is no reneging on the fact that it was the batters who lost the match in Adelaide, there are some other issues as well. Take the case of Harshit Rana. Now, the youngster has impressed on debut and one should not pin the loss on the pacer.

However, there were signs even in Perth. Rana losing steam after a long spell, his fitness for back-to-back Tests is something the team management should have been aware of. To not play Akash Deep — who has the action that is similar to Mohammed Shami, is fitter than Rana and even perhaps Siraj and can run in all day — was a blunder on their part. It cost them dearly as Bumrah could not carry the load all alone. "We are not just playing with one bowler. There are other bowlers also who will have to take responsibility and get the job done for the team, be it Siraj, Rana, Nitish Reddy, Akash Deep or Prasidh (Krishna)," Rohit had said after the loss in Adelaide.

Now, these are just tactical calls. Then there are the technical issues with the batters which Australia exploited in Adelaide. Virat Kohli's off-stump, Gill's incoming delivery, Rishabh Pant's tentative line, and so on.

From 10 AM Adelaide time on Tuesday, India would be looking to find some solutions, at least makeshift, before the next Test in Brisbane on Saturday.

WTC table: SA go top

DUBAI: South Africa on Monday replaced Australia at the top of the ICC World Test Championship table after their 109-run over Sri Lanka while India are now in the third place following their defeat in the Adelaide Test. South Africa now have 63.33 percentage points after 10 matches in the cycle and they are followed by Australia (60.71 PTC). India were leading the WTC table, heading into the Adelaide Test after win in Perth. India had 61.11 points heading into the pink ball Test which they lost and now stand third with 57.29 percentage points. The best possible way for India to make a third appearance in the WTC final next year would be to win each of the three remaining Tests in Australia. With the Border-Gavaskar series now tied at 1-1, Australia are in a strong position for a top-two finish.

UP, Bengal enter SMAT quarters

ENS/AGENCIES @Chennai

RINKU Singh and Vipraj Nigam displayed excellent finishing skills to take Uttar Pradesh into the quarterfinals of the Syed Mushtaq Ali T20 Trophy. The duo helped UP beat Andhra by four wickets on Monday. In the other fixture, pacer Mohammed Shami carried Bengal to the quarterfinals by smashing a game-changing 17-ball-32 before bowling 13 dot balls in his four-over spell.

UP will take on Delhi in the last-eight clash after Rinku (27 n.o) and Vipraj (27 n.o) added 48 runs in just three overs to finish the 157-run chase in 19 overs. UP were cruising at one stage, having reached 70 for no loss in just 8.1 overs before a slump saw them skidding to 109 for six. The Indian player and Nigam then helped UP cross the line.

Bengal lost early wickets batting first, but Karan Lal stood his ground. Sayan Ghosh gave away seven runs and Chandigarh lost two overs in the final over as Bengal won by three runs. They will face Baroda in the quarter final. Brief scores: Andhra 156/6 in 20 ovs (Prasad 34 n.o; Nigam 2/20) lost to UP 157/6 in 19 ovs (Sharma 48, Nigam 27 n.o, Rinku 27 n.o); Bengal 159/9 in 20 ovs (Lal 33, Shami 3/1; Jagjit Singh 4/21) bt Chandigarh 156/9 in 20 ovs (Raj Bawa 32; Ghosh 4/30).

CL: Real, Man City in danger zone

AP @London

THE enlarged first stage of the revamped Champions League was supposed to be a stroll for giants of European soccer like Real Madrid, Paris Saint-Germain and Manchester City. It's proving anything but that.

In fact, heading into the sixth of eight rounds in the new-look, 36-team league format, there's a growing risk of an embarrassingly early exit for Madrid and City — the winners of the last two Champions League titles — as well as PSG, the French champion which is doing by far the worst out of the four Ligue 1 teams in the competition. Twenty-four clubs will advance to the knockout stage, with the top eight qualifying directly for the last 16 and the other 16 going in to two-legged playoffs. PSG is currently in 25th place — and therefore out of the qualifying picture — while Kylian Mbappe and Madrid are only one place higher, hanging onto the last qualifying spot. They both play away from home in their third-to-last games, with Madrid facing a tough trip to Atalanta and PSG playing Salzburg.

City is languishing in 17th place and on eight points but a loss at Juventus on Wednesday would plunge the English champions into potential trouble. The PSG vs. Man City match in the seventh round is shaping up to be hugely significant, especially if things don't go their way this week.

FIXTURES: (11:15PM): Dinamo Zagreb vs Celtic, Girona vs Liverpool; (Wednesday 1:30 AM): RB Leipzig vs Aston Villa, Leverkusen vs Inter, Atalanta vs Real Madrid, Club Brugge vs Sporting CP, Shakhtar Donetsk vs Bayern Munich, RB Salzburg vs PSG, Brest vs PSV

NOTES FROM DOWN UNDER

Siraj fined, Head also sanctioned by ICC

Mohammed Siraj was fined 20 per cent of his match fee, while Travis Head was also "sanctioned" by the ICC for indulging in a heated exchange of words in Adelaide. Both were held guilty of breaching the world body's code of conduct following a disciplinary hearing on Monday. "Siraj has been penalised 20 per cent of his match fee after being found guilty of breaching article 2.5 of the ICC Code of Conduct for Players and Player Support Personnel," the ICC said.

Gavaskar, Shastri urge Rohit to open

Former India players Ravi Shastri and Sunil Gavaskar want skipper Rohit Sharma to return to the opening spot so that he can be his aggressive and expressive self. Rohit, who had missed the first Test, dropped down to the number six spot in the pink ball Test after KL Rahul excelled at the top in the series opener in his absence. However, the Indian skipper looked "too subdued" as he managed scores of 3 and 6 in India's 10-wicket loss in Adelaide.

Amit is a humble and team-first player: TN Dragons coach Van Eijk

KALYANI MANGALE @Chennai

TAMIL Nadu Dragon's head coach Rein van Eijk has been in charge of developing the next generation of hockey players in Germany. Now, with the Hockey India League, he has the challenge to make the Dragons ready for the competition starting in Rourkela on December 28. He spoke with this daily about inclusion of a few players, his hopes for the season and more. Excerpts...

On excitement for HIL

It is extremely high. I think the auction being as big as it was has already shown a lot about the excitement of all the players wanting to join. We are four weeks out. The excitement has simply grown, I think we cannot wait to start to get together. Playing in Rourkela is going to be amazing. The stadium that was built for the last World Cup is a piece of art. Luckily enough, we have some time to connect with the region as well to have a pre-camp in Chennai.

On bidding for Karthi

There are several reasons for that. First of all, he's a great player. Secondly, the connection with the region is something that obviously plays a part in that. I think he is hungry and eager to establish himself again in the national team. And obviously on top of that, if you look at the team that we've picked and the one we want to build, a lot of it is based on communication. Selvam Karthi is obviously the best player from the Tamil Nadu region. It was elementary for us to get to, to get him. I think the way he has played at the national championship four weeks ago already shows the form that he's in. With him now being in Europe, with the Indian core group says a lot about his capacity. He is just a great player and I am looking forward to working with him.

On Amit Rohidas' role

His experience and his ability to play multiple positions is something that will help us as well. Our game is going be very dynamic full of energy and the game is going to be very open. I think that fits his playing style. Amit is a humble player and a team-first player. That's the core quality of one of the more important players and that's something that leads into culture as well. Along with that, he is a great first runner with penalty corners so he can help us defend on that part. He plays center-back where he can communicate the best. One of the reasons why we picked him is because he's someone who desperately wants to win.

On importance of Janssen

He is one of the top drag flickers in the world and plays center-back. If you look at rotations, there are certain positions that don't get substituted as much as other positions. One of those positions is the center-back position. We wanted to have one Indian and one overseas center-back. That's a position that he can play, he can communicate and organise. His passing ability makes him valuable for the team as well. After we got David Harte in the round of goalies, David is a player that Jip has played with for over 10 years already at club level.

SUBTLE SIGNS MAY INDICATE EARLY ONSET

RISHITA KHANNA @ Bengaluru

SUMI (name changed) was in high school when her parents noticed a marked shift in her behaviour towards them and her peers. She often got into fights with her parents, lacked personal hygiene, and kept postponing daily routines. Her academic performance too was on the decline. She started avoiding friends, and became a social recluse. She also started muttering to herself and shrugged it off when asked about it. "When her mother noticed that the girl did not focus while studying, she took her for counselling. During evaluation, it was found that she had schizophrenia as she had severe auditory hallucinations, and was referred to a psychiatrist," said Dr Jamila K Warrier, Coordinator & Consultant Psychologist at KIMSHEALTH, Thiruvanthapuram. A year later, after receiving treatment, Sumi is doing fine.

Schizophrenia in children, though very rare, is a serious mental health disorder that can significantly impact a child's development and daily life. Characterised by delusions, hallucinations, and disorganised thinking, early-onset schizophrenia often manifests with subtle signs like speech delays and social withdrawal.

However, experts emphasise that with a combination of medication, therapy, and family support, early diagnosis and treatment can improve outcomes, helping children lead independent lives despite the challenges of this condition. Schizophrenia affects how a person perceives reality, feels, and behaves. While it is most commonly diagnosed in late adolescence or early adulthood, it can also affect children, says Dr Sushma Gopalan, child psychologist and child life specialist, at Aster CMI Hospital, terming the condition as early-onset schizophrenia (EOS).

Dr Sushma highlighted that identifying schizophrenia in children can be challenging because the symptoms often differ from those seen in adults. The symptoms may begin subtly, resembling other developmental or emotional issues, which makes early detection difficult.

"Children with schizophrenia may withdraw from family and peers, show a decline in academic performance, or lose interest in activities they once enjoyed. They may also experience difficulty concentrating, exhibit disorganised thinking, or struggle with memory," she said.

The perceptual deviations like delusions (false beliefs), and hallucinations are the hallmarks of schizophrenia."In this case, another indication was her delusion, as she firmly believed her reality was true. Her teachers observed her anxiety and said she kept complaining that her friends were talking behind her back about her. Such delusions, where the anxiety consumes the person is a tell-tale sign of the condition," Dr Jamila said.

Psychotic symptoms, such as hearing voices or seeing things that are not there, and holding persistent false beliefs are also common. Additionally, children may display mood changes like anxiety, irritability, or depression, she pointed out, and in some cases, children may have unusual speech patterns, exhibit clumsiness, or repeat movements.

Dr Sushma suggests that if a child consistently shows several of these symptoms for more than six months, it is important to seek an evaluation from a mental health professional. A thorough assessment, including interviews, psychological tests, and ruling out other potential conditions, is necessary to ensure an accurate diagnosis, she mentioned.

Experts highlight that while EOS remains rare, it may seem like there are more cases due to improvements in diagnostic methods and greater awareness of the disorder. The exact causes of schizophrenia in children are not completely understood, but experts believe it arises from a combination of genetic, biological, and environmental factors.

Children with a family history of schizophrenia are at a higher risk of developing the disorder. "In the case of Sumi, during treatment, it was found that her father's sister had been diagnosed with the condition when she was in college. The role of genetic component also plays a big role," Dr Jamila adds.

Abnormalities in brain development and imbalances in neurotransmitters like dopamine and glutamate are linked to the condition. Factors during pregnancy, such as maternal infections, poor nutrition, or complications, can also increase the risk. High levels of stress or traumatic experiences early in life may also trigger schizophrenia in children who are genetically vulnerable, experts said.

Boys tend to show symptoms earlier than girls, says Dr Chitra Shankar, consultant-development paediatrics, at Manipal Hospital, adding that the condition can develop suddenly or gradually. Stressful life events can trigger the onset of schizophrenia, and there is a strong genetic link, meaning it may run in families, she said.

Dr Chitra highlighted that children with schizophrenia often do not recognise that they have a mental illness and believe that there is nothing wrong with them. Delusions or false beliefs are common, as is disorganised thinking and speech.

The affected individual may feel that their thoughts are being controlled or interfered with, and they may struggle with attention, concentration, and memory. Dr Chitra said patients are generally prescribed with antipsychotic medications to help manage the symptoms.

"While these medications can be effective in controlling symptoms, they must be monitored for side effects. Some individuals may need to take medication for a long period, and in some cases, the condition can become chronic," she said. Experts also emphasise that psychosocial therapies and cognitive behavioural learning (CBL) - which identifies how our thoughts, feelings, and behaviours are connected - are also beneficial in helping individuals manage the condition and reduce the likelihood of it returning.

As there are neurochemical changes in the body, it is important that the condition is pharmacologically managed before counselling, Dr Jamila said, adding that medications should not be stopped midway and should be taken the full course. "In some cases, medications are stopped midway and the condition relapses."

TYPICAL SIGNS

Delusions: This is when the person believes in things that aren't real or true. For example, a person with schizophrenia could think that they're being harmed or harassed when they aren't

Hallucinations: These usually involve seeing or hearing things that other people don't observe. Hallucinations can occur with any of the senses, but hearing voices is most common

Extremely disorganised or unusual motor behaviour: This may show in several ways, from childlike silliness to being agitated for no reason. People with schizophrenia may not want to follow instructions

Negative symptoms: People with schizophrenia may not be able to function in the way they could before their illness started. For example, they may not bathe, make eye contact or show emotions. They may lose interest in everyday activities, socially withdraw and have a hard time planning ahead

MYTH BUSTERS

Dr Mahesh DM
On Diabetes
Consultant endocrinologist at Aster CMI Hospital, Bengaluru

Myth: Diabetes is caused by eating too much sugar

Fact: While excessive sugar consumption can contribute to the risk of developing type-2 diabetes, it is not the sole cause. Diabetes occurs when the body cannot properly regulate blood sugar levels due to either insufficient insulin production (type-1) or insulin resistance (type-2). Genetics, age, physical inactivity, and obesity are also major risk factors.

Myth: People with diabetes can't eat sweets or carbohydrates

Fact: People with diabetes can enjoy sweets and carbohydrates, but it's all about moderation and balance. Carbohydrates affect blood sugar levels, so portion control is important. The key is choosing healthy, low-glycemic index carbs (like whole grains) and pairing them with fibre, proteins, or healthy fats to help manage blood sugar.

Myth: Diabetes only affects older people

Fact: While type-2 diabetes is more common in older adults, it can affect individuals of any age, including children and teenagers, especially with rising rates of obesity and sedentary lifestyles. Type-1 diabetes, which is an autoimmune disease, often develops in childhood or early adulthood. Early detection and healthy habits are crucial for everyone, regardless of age.

Pollution and stress emerge as major risk factors for stroke

While hypertension, diabetes, cardiovascular diseases, and smoking remain significant risk factors for stroke, new contributors like sedentary lifestyles and air pollution are taking centre stage. Research has now shown that particulate matter also damages cardiovascular health by triggering inflammation, accelerating atherosclerosis, and impairing blood vessels, says Dr MV Padma Srivastava, chairman of neurology, Paras Healthcare, Gurugram, in an interview with Ashish Srivastava. Edited excerpts:

INTERVIEW
DR MV PADMA SRIVASTAVA

● Has the epidemiology of stroke cases changed in recent years?

Absolutely, there has been a notable shift in the epidemiology of strokes and we are observing a rise in its cases globally. In certain regions, referred to as stroke belts in epidemiology, we are detecting prevalence rates of up to 700 cases per 100,000 population. To put this into perspective, every 30 seconds, someone suffers a stroke, and every four minutes, it claims a life. However, it's not just about more cases. Increased awareness and advancements in data collection are helping us identify more strokes than before. So, while the numbers have grown, part of this uptick can be attributed to better detection and reporting.

● Are strokes now occurring earlier?

Yes, there's been a concerning shift. Strokes were once considered a condition of the elderly, but that's no longer true. In low and middle income countries like India, an increasing proportion of younger people are being affected. Alarming as it may sound, 25% of stroke cases in India are now reported in individuals under 40 years of age. This reflects a broader trend that demands urgent attention.

● What factors are driving this early onset?

While traditional factors like hypertension, diabetes, cardiovascular diseases, and smoking remain significant, new contributors are taking centre stage. Among these, sedentary lifestyles and air pollution stand out. Air pollution, for instance, has emerged as the fifth major risk factor for strokes in South Asia. Initially, we thought pollutants like PM 10 and PM 2.5 only harmed the lungs. However, research has now shown that these particulates also damage cardiovascular health by triggering inflammation, accelerating atherosclerosis, and impairing blood vessels. This means air pollution is also a direct threat to heart and brain health.

XPLAINER

Respiratory health under threat from poor air quality

UNNIKRISHNAN S @T'Puram

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

AIR quality plays a crucial role in our overall health and well-being. The air we breathe is a mixture of gases, particles, and pollutants that can significantly affect our bodies, especially when pollution levels are high. Poor air quality can have both immediate and long-term effects on health, ranging from respiratory issues to more severe chronic conditions.

One of the most immediate and noticeable effects of poor air quality is on the respiratory system. Short-term effects are caused by irritation and injury due to pollutants such as particulate matter, ozone, and nitrogen dioxide. Exposure to poor-quality air can lead to symptoms like wheezing, coughing, and shortness of breath.

Prolonged exposure to air pollution increases the risk of chronic respiratory diseases, including chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), lung cancer, and accelerated lung aging. Additionally, long-term exposure to polluted air can also contribute to cardiovascular diseases.

Vulnerable population

Certain groups are especially vulnerable to the harmful effects of poor air quality. Children, the elderly, and people with existing health conditions are at higher risk.

Explaining the dangers of indoor pollution, especially for children and those spending long hours indoors, Dr Aswathy Thazhakottuvalappil, consultant in respiratory medicine, shares her experience in treating a 6-year-old child who suffered from recurrent wheezing episodes. These episodes, which required regular nebulisation and medication, were found to be triggered by exposure to indoor air pollution caused by burning of plastic and paper in the family's home compound.

This practice contributed significantly to the child's health issues and demonstrates how indoor air pollution can be just as harmful as outdoor pollution.

Air pollution makes children more prone to recurrent infections, asthma, other lung diseases, neurodevelopmental delays, and an increased risk of cancer. Indoor air pollution also plays a crucial role in the development of lung diseases, particularly among children, women, and the elderly who spend more time indoors.

India has the highest death rate from chronic lung diseases and asthma, with air pollution estimated to cause about 2 million deaths every year. Air quality is rapidly declining in most major cities across the country, not just in Delhi.

NEGATIVE EFFECTS OF AIR POLLUTION ON CHILDREN

Respiratory issues: Children who live in polluted areas may have a 20% reduction in lung capacity

Cognitive impairment: Exposure to fine particulate matter (PM2.5) can cause cognitive delays and reduced academic performance

Cardiovascular health: Long-term exposure can increase the risk of cardiovascular issues

Mental health: High levels of air pollution may cause mental health disorders like depression and anxiety

Weakened immune system: Constant exposure may make kids be more susceptible to infections, allergies, and chronic illnesses

To reduce the harmful effects of air pollution, it is important to:

- Check the Air Quality Index (AQI) regularly
- Use air purifiers to reduce indoor air pollution
- Promote clean and green energy sources to decrease overall pollution levels

Indians have early onset of lung cancer compared to West

PULSE OF THE MATTER

MARYLOU knew she was at high risk of lung cancer as she had been a heavy smoker for 45 years, beginning in her teens. When she finally quit in 2007, the threat of the disease continued to prey on her mind. In 2014, when she got screened, doctors found a nodule on her left lung. However, they told her it was stage-1 lung cancer, not all early-stage lung cancers grow and spread, and that it is important to monitor the growth as one in six lung cancer survivors can develop second lung cancer, and balancing lung resection versus preservation by an expert is vital.

They continued to monitor the growth, recommending a scan once a year. By 2020, the nodule had grown, and Marylou decided to undergo surgery. Using a minimally invasive technique involving robotics, the doctors removed the nodule sparing as much of the lung tissue as possible. She recovered quickly and was discharged two days later. Doctors recommended that she continue to get screened regularly. Now she leads an active life, painting and editing books.

Marylou's case underscores the importance of early screening for lung cancer. Often, lung cancer is associated with the older age group and smokers. However, did you know that it affects younger individuals and non-smokers too? In India, this is especially true. Risk factors as diverse as air pollution, exposure to dangerous chemicals, and genetics govern the country's rising prevalence of lung cancer.

Lung cancer is among the most prevalent forms of cancer worldwide. According to GLOBOCAN (2022), it was responsible for over 2.4 million cases and more than 1.8 million deaths globally. In India, every year 72,510 individuals are diagnosed with this cancer and 66,279 succumb to it. Here are some aspects that make the lung cancer landscape unique in India:

Affects younger age group: A worrying trend is the age at diagnosis. As compared to the West, patients are diagnosed almost a decade earlier with most being between 54 and 70 years. It is estimated that, by 2025, the number of cases in metropolitan cities will have increased to 81,219 and 30,109 cases among men and women respectively.

Impacts women too: Traditionally, lung cancer is often assumed to affect only men. However, this disease also affects women, including those who have never smoked. The incidence rate has grown from 2.68 to 4.49 per 100,000 between 1990 and 2019. Other than smoking, this increase can be attributed to other factors such as indoor and outdoor pollution and genes.

Involves non-traditional risk factors: The root cause behind the majority of the cases is tobacco usage. Altogether 42% of men and 14.2% of women smoke or use chewing tobacco. The use of products such as hand-rolled tobacco and beedis is also prevalent. Individuals start using these products at an average age of 18.7 years, significantly multiplying their risk for lung cancer. At the same time, the number of individuals who have never smoked and are being diagnosed is also increasing (40-50% of the total cases). This can be attributed to factors such as air pollution.

Tuberculosis and other genetic factors: Lung cancer often coexists with tuberculosis (TB), with one leading to the other in several cases. Furthermore, certain genetic mutations are far more pronounced among Indians, increasing the risks of lung cancer.

Lung cancer remains a formidable threat in India, affecting thousands of individuals and their families every year. The changing demographics and unique trends in terms of tobacco usage, age, and gender make the disease even more complex, requiring renewed awareness and focus.

HEADSTRONG, GAME-STRONG!

Behind successful athletes such as badminton champion HS Prannoy, English cricketer Jos Buttler, and IPL team Rajasthan Royals, is Bengaluru-based mental performance coach Mon Brokman, who coaches these sports stars, helping them keep mind over muscle to stay on track

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

BEING a successful sportsperson on a national or international stage may bring fame, wealth, and the pride of representing your country but with it comes the stresses of a highly competitive environment, the stress of being in the public eye and the burden of fulfilling an entire nation's sporting dreams. Mental performance coaches like Bengaluru-based Mon Brokman, are becoming popular choices among sportspersons who want to prioritise mental fitness apart from just physical fitness. "Most people think with more years of experience, things are becoming easier.

(Clockwise) Mon Brokman with HS Prannoy; Jos Buttler; and Rajasthan Royals

But as you become more successful, the external challenges also grow, and players have to learn through maturity, experience, and mental training how to deal with it," says Brokman.

Brokman has worked with badminton player HS Prannoy, Indian Premiere League's Rajasthan Royals, English cricketer Jos Buttler, golfers Anirban Lahiri and Shubhankar Sharma over his eight-year stint in Bengaluru. Having worked with Prannoy for the last five years, Brokman shares, "Prannoy's USP is that he is always motivated. We never needed to motivate him, even in his worst season and in his worst time, through a chain of injuries. It is something that he always had and that really inspired me." In an interview with Prannoy, he mentioned to CE about the mental toughness needed to be a sportsman, the toll it takes in the long run, and how he keeps himself motivated. Brokman continues, "What we needed to do was take his motivation and channel it to the correct practices and training so the motivation is being used to grow and appreciate the small wins."

Brokman and his team at performance and health intelligence company, Behavioural Foresight, use advanced biofeedback technology consisting of wearable devices and camera-based systems to give real-time insights into an athlete's physiological responses during performance. "We track their cognitive skills, heart rate, heart rate variability, skin conductivity, breathing patterns and even emotional responses. All these give a clear picture of how they're managing pressure, maintaining focus and recovering from stress. By understanding these markers, we can guide them towards a 'flow state' – that optimal zone where everything clicks and performance is at its peak," he explains. "It's a huge step forward from traditional sports psychology which often relies on subjective observation or self-reporting. We use tailored routines to neutralise stress, stay present, and break through mental barriers that once held them back," says Brokman.

Despite huge strides in the field, stigma around mental health holds those in the Indian sports scene back from seeking out mental performance coaching. "In India, the concept of mental performance coaching for athletes is still at a nascent stage, though it has long been embraced internationally. There remains some hesitation and discomfort from teams and individuals in India when mental coaching services are introduced," Brokman says.

However, an increasing number of elite Indian sports persons, including Prannoy have started talking openly about using mental performance coaches and sports psychologists, indicating changing attitudes. Explaining its impact, Brokman says, "Prannoy was initially not open about it, but at some point, he was quite proud about what he's doing. He's working with us on a daily basis and it's helping more and more young athletes and parents to accept that this is normal and integral to performance."

'DISCIPLINE IS KEY TO SUCCESS'

Accomplished, resolute, and wise beyond his years – that is badminton champ HS Prannoy for you. He speaks to CE about his journey, travails, and more

SHREYA VERONICA

SPORTS isn't an easy field – years of focus, sacrifice, and hard work go into clinching medals for one's country. Despite the hardships, young sportsmen have made India proud on the international arena. Badminton ace HS Prannoy, who won bronze medals at the 2023 World Championships and at the 2022 Asian Games, is one such shining star. He speaks to CE exclusively about his journey.

■ Tell us about your journey as a badminton player.
I've been playing badminton professionally for 22 years. I was lucky to be trained by Pullela Gopichand sir. There are two to three years of good badminton left in me and there is a lot more I want to achieve.

■ Can you take us through your daily routine?
My daily routine is fixed: Wake up at 7am, practice from 9 to 11am, finish lunch, another session from 3 to 5.30pm. The last five years have been more lenient because I started taking care of my body differently. You cannot push yourself and train like you did when you were a junior. I am trying to find a balance between sports and family life. If you want to have a long career, discipline is key to success.

■ What are the challenges that you came across?
I think the first challenge is in school, where you want to study and play. Sports is a risky field – one out of 100 kids may make it to the top five and the rest 99 stay somewhere in the middle. It is especially risky in India, where you don't have enough support at the grassroots level. But my parents were very supportive. There will be many times when you are injured and might not be able to play like how you have to. You just have to hold on and trust that things are going to change. It is a cycle which has ups and downs; most of the time, it is down. You should understand that this is how sports is.

■ Who is your inspiration?
To do this every single day is tough. You have to find motivation every day. I watch shows where players like Novak Djokovic, who've been at their best for the last 20 years, share their experiences. Such individuals have always been an inspiration when times are tough.

■ How has badminton evolved?
It has grown a lot, thanks to many players out there such as Saina Nehwal and PV Sindhu, who are torchbearers of the sport. Them getting Olympic medals made the sport more visible. This was very important for the sport because back in the day, there were no sponsors. But today, brands like Victor come to India, which shows the growth of the sport.

■ What message would you want to give young players?
Work hard, be it in sports or any other field you are in. Do not compare yourself with others. Sometimes, things might come late to you but that doesn't mean you don't work hard. If you are constantly at it, someday, you will definitely get good results. Just wait for it.

■ Was there a time you wanted to give up?
There were multiple times when I told my parents I wanted to stop. But over the last five years, I have changed as a person. I understood that defeat is just a part of the process. Though I was demotivated, I kept short goals to keep going.

A unique equation

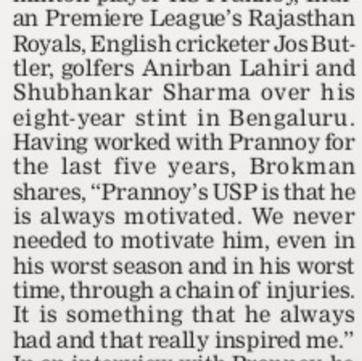
Supported by Infosys' co-founder Narayana Murthy's son Rohan Murty, Axiom of Choice is set to explore the connections between science, philosophy, and human experience

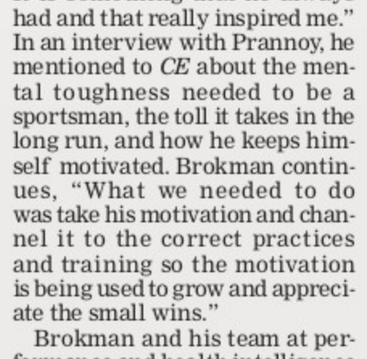
POOJA DAS

ARE the choices we make a result of our own free will, or are there unseen forces shaping our decisions? It's one of those timeless philosophical questions that has fascinated thinkers for centuries – one that sometimes haunts us in moments of doubt. Do we truly have agency? Or is free will just an illusion? This idea of choice and the freedom to choose has fueled countless debates. Now, it is set to take on a new form with the premiere of Axiom of Choice, an innovative play written and co-directed by British mathematician and writer, Marcus du Sautoy. "Mathematics and theatre have both been passions in my life, and this is a wonderful way of fusing the two as this is a play about ideas of free will, Hindu philosophy, the Bhagavad Gita, and the concept of finite versus the infinite," says du Sautoy, who is also the Simonyi Professor for the Public Understanding of Science at the University of Oxford.

Supported by Infosys' co-founder Narayana Murthy's son Rohan Murty, and set to be staged for the first time in Bengaluru, Axiom of Choice promises an intellectual and emotional journey that blends abstract mathematical concepts with human dilemmas. It brings to life the story of French mathematician André Weil, one of the 20th century's most influential mathematicians, weaving together his groundbreaking discoveries with the harrowing decisions he faced during World War II. "I use the biography of Weil, one of my mathematical heroes, to explore a moment in his life when he is given a choice. I've never really understood why he made the decision that he made. So the play is partly using his story to explore: do we have free will, or are we just being controlled by the equations which push and pull the universe around?," reflects du Sautoy.

Stills from the play





The intersection of mathematics and theatre, for du Sautoy, is also a way to bring mathematical concepts to a larger audience. "I thought that theatre was a powerful way to communicate mathematical ideas to a non-mathematical audience," he says, adding, "To actually physicalise mathematics through movement helps people understand abstract ideas like prime numbers or Fibonacci numbers. I also feel theatre was a powerful medium to communicate ideas – not just of mathematics but also of philosophy."

Celebrating Indian heritage of mathematics

India plays a significant role in the play, both thematically and narratively. Weil's fascination with the Bhagavad Gita and Hindu philosophy is a central element of the play. "An important theme is that Weil got very obsessed with the Bhagavad Gita. He also came to India and spent time here," he shares, adding, "I saw resonances between Krishna's teaching in the Gita – that souls are immortal even though our bodies die – and the idea of mathematics being immortal. A mathematician may die, but mathematics lives on."

The play also celebrates India's rich mathematical heritage. "Many people, especially in Europe, don't know that zero was invented in India," du Sautoy notes, adding, "Fibonacci numbers shouldn't even be called Fibonacci numbers. So there's quite a celebration of the Indian heritage in mathematics."

While the play is grounded in Weil's life, it interweaves the playwright's personal experiences. "There's a trip Weil takes to Gwalior with an Indian mathematician. That didn't happen at all – it's actually my own story when I went to see the zero in this temple in Gwalior. I've interwoven André Weil's story and my story," he says.

(Axiom of Choice will be staged on December 12, 7.30pm at Prestige Centre for Performing Arts, Konanakunte. Tickets at ₹499 available on bookmyshow.com)

FITBIT

SUPTA UTTHITA TADASANA
(FULL BODY STRETCH POSE)

This is done lying down on the back and stretching the toes down and the fingers up, both being pulled in the opposite directions. It is mostly done at the end of a yoga session to help open the worked muscles, joints, and deep tissues. While the hamstrings are stretched, the quadriceps contract to help lengthen the hamstrings. It helps boost energy in the body.

STEPS

- When you release from Vakrasana, stretch the legs out completely and slowly lie down on your back and relax to take a few breaths.
- Then, inhale and stretch the arms above your head in Namaste, feeling the deep stretch from the lower abdomen to the tips of the fingers and downwards from the hips to the tips of the toes.
- In this Pose, the stretch at the lower abdomen, helps to contract the entire body muscles, which further help to relieve any aches and pains as a symptom from the imbalance of the Manipura (Solar Plexus) Chakra, related to indigestion.
- You can remain here for about 6 breaths and watch the stretch as the breathing is slow and deep while you remain with your eyes closed.
- The focus should be close to the centre of the body, the navel, where the heat is generated with the activation of the Manipura Chakra.

BENEFITS

- Lengthens the spine and strengthens the calves, thighs and feet.
- Releases the contractions of all the muscles.
- Increases body flexibility and movement, and stretches the body.
- Creates space in the chest and abdomen.
- Increases diaphragm flexibility and relaxes the breath rhythm.
- Helps to energise the body and lactic acid is produced.
- All the organs receive a good blood flow.
- Memory power is improved.
- Stretched and relaxed muscles dilate the blood vessels and the circulatory system functions efficiently.
- Stimulates the Heart Chakra.
- Activates Solar Plexus Chakra that is believed to increase confidence/self-esteem.
- Benefits seniors and pregnant women.
- Obese people can increase their blood circulation by doing this.
- Addresses ailments related to lower back, digestion and insomnia.
- Calms the nervous system, hence aiding those with depression, trauma, anxiety or sleeplessness.

CE spends a day at an artsy factory that uses glass-fibre-reinforced concrete to create a diverse range of aesthetically appealing products, natural-textured tiles, and vases

Concrete idea

AMRITHA MARY JOSE

IMAGINE owning a home that's ready in just days. You visit a factory, select a freshly crafted house, and all that's left is to move in. This is the future of construction that Ferrocon Concrete Factory envisions and is actively planning to help set up.

As one of the leading concrete-focused factories in Kochi, the company taps into the strength, durability, and aesthetic appeal offered by glass-fibre-reinforced concrete (GFRC) to create a diverse range of products — including tables, basins, bathtubs, natural-textured tiles, and vases. Now, they want to make the big leap forward: to create ready-to-live-in houses. "Innovate as much as possible — that's our philosophy," says Mohammed Sufyan, managing partner of Ferrocon.

The idea for the company took root nearly two decades ago when his father Mohammed Sunil, a contractor passionate about innovation, tinkered with various designs and mixes. As a young architect, Sufyan joined forces with him to develop the idea further, and in 2021, the company began operations.

As their product line expanded, the team grew significantly and now includes artists, designers, engineers and skilled workers. Sufyan handles Ferrocon's marketing and design, while his father Sunil oversees production and development.

The legacy of innovation continues. "Since GFRC complements virtually any design, we've conducted endless experiments. Our latest involves mixing it with polystyrene (thermocol), and we are experimenting with precast toilets and apartment blocks that can be fully cast in the factory and assembled on-site," Sufyan says.

THE PRODUCT

Ferrocon's products showcase the versatility of GFRC. Their jali screens make buildings stand out by allowing wind and light to enter while maintaining privacy. Wall cladding panels are flexible and mimic natural stone, acting as replacements for traditional tiles. Some are translucent, allowing natural colours to pop when light passes through. "After the final coat, it looks exactly like stone, and aside from the fibre, no harmful substances are used," he says.

Roshan Chandy, who works with Ferrocon, chips in, "We have pots and planters with finishes ranging from stone and clay to cosmic patterns, sinks made from carbon fibre, and 3D wall panels — we are exploring every possible idea using GFRC as a base material."

For customers seeking wall art, custom pieces can be crafted in-house. Their products range from ₹3,000 to ₹15,000, with the giant single planter priced at ₹39,000. They are now developing fibre-based stone veneers and flexible flutes. The average lifespan of GFRC is said to be 50 years, but even older structures exist. An annual coating can extend its longevity. Being water-resistant, it can withstand changing weather conditions.

FEEL THE FABRIC

Ashraf incorporates recycled fabrics and materials like high-grade plywood, polystyrene foam, mud plaster, and stone plaster into her art. Even worn-out garments such as mundu (dhoti) or sari can make their way into the artworks.

> Traditionally, people design their spaces first and choose art as a finishing touch. But ready-made pieces often don't align with a room's size, style, or colour palette, disrupting the overall balance. We address this by collaborating with clients during the design stage
>
> Jihan Ashraf, artist

THE PROCESS

At Ferrocon, the manufacturing process is meticulously structured, with workers assigned to specific tasks. First, they create a mould in the desired shape. Then, GFRC is cast into it. "The entire process is done manually and takes seven days to complete and prepare the product for shipping," says Sufyan. "After the GFRC sets, sanding and painting follow. Everything, including the final artwork, is handcrafted, giving each product a unique aura."

Finding a market was challenging, so they promoted products through friends and fellow architects. Though difficult at first, as established architects began incorporating their furniture into designs, they gradually acquired more clients. Today, Ferrocon serves customers across India. Their team customises and exports an array of GFRC products — all crafted and finished in-house. Now, the company is setting its sights on international markets as well.

ART IN THE MIX

Shortly into Ferrocon's journey, Sufyan's wife Jihan Ashraf discovered art within these concrete mixes. She used the raw textures produced in their concrete factory to make mesmerising wall pieces, thus giving birth to OldWall Factory that focuses on unique, concept-based and space-embellishing art pieces. "We noticed a growing fascination with architectural styles like Wabi-Sabi, Japandi, and industrial themes," Ashraf recalls. "This ignited the idea to create art pieces."

Ashraf, skilled in realistic portraits, mehendi, and calligraphy, channelled her talents into OldWall, delivering personalised masterpieces directly into homes. She plays with tactile textures, vibrant colours, and organic shapes to craft pieces that interact beautifully with both natural and artificial light.

For a client in Mumbai, she created an abstract piece inspired by their journey, harmoniously blending with the room's colour theme. In another project, she designed art that mirrors the natural contours of a building's site, creating a profound connection between the place and the piece.

OldWall also takes on grand installations, offering single-piece artworks up to 8x4 feet or segmented designs for even larger projects.

Clearing the FRP mess

Recently, Ferrocon has linked up with ICAR - Central Institute of Fisheries Technology to help recycle FRP (fibreglass reinforced plastic) debris in coastal environments. One type of debris identified is fishing boats made of FRP. These boats have a lifespan of 10 years and are not recycled, leading to environmental waste. Ferrocon proposes to mix this FRP waste with GFRC to create useful structures, effectively turning waste into valuable products. This is in alignment with the Swachhta Action Plan 2024.

RISHI'S RUDRA GARUDA PURANA GETS A NEW RELEASE DATE

CE FEATURES

RISHI, known for his performances in Operation Alamelamma and Kavaludaari, is set to make a powerful comeback with the action-thriller Rudra Garuda Purana. Originally slated for release on December 27, the film's release has been rescheduled to January 24, 2025, kicking off the new year with a bang.

Directed by KS Nandeesh and produced by Lohith under the Ashwini Arts banner, the film has already garnered attention with its first look, teaser, and songs. The story delves into the mystery of a bus accident that occurred 25 years ago, claiming the lives of all its passengers. In a shocking twist, the same bus and its passengers reappear years later, sparking an intense investigation.

Director Nandeesh shares that the film draws inspiration from the curious case of Pan Am Flight 914. This real-life enigma involves a Douglas DC-4 plane that reportedly disappeared in 1955 and reappeared 30 years later. "The intriguing premise forms the backdrop for Rudra Garuda Purana, with the 17A Kaveri Express bus taking centre stage," says Nandeesh.

The teaser had sparked speculation about similarities with the Tamil film Diary. Addressing these rumours, Nandeesh clarifies, "I haven't watched that film, but out of curiosity, I asked our music director, who works in Chennai, about it. He confirmed there's no resemblance. People drew comparisons because both feature a bus accident, but beyond that, there's no connection. After watching the Tamil film, to be certain, I can confidently say Rudra Garuda Purana is an entirely original Kannada film." Rishi, who dons the khaki once again after Kavaludaari, expresses his excitement about the project. "We've poured a lot of care and focus into this film, and I'm confident the audience will enjoy it," he says. The film features Priyanka Kumar in the lead role, with Ashwini Gowda, Shivaraj K R Pete, and Ram Pavan in pivotal supporting roles. The ensemble cast also includes Vinod Alva, Avinash, Giri, KS Shridhar, and Jagappa.

The music, composed by Krishna Prasad, who has previously worked with acclaimed Telugu music director Devi Sri Prasad, has been well received. "The teaser and songs have already generated positive buzz, and we hope this enthusiasm carries over to theatres in January 2025," says Nandeesh.

Excerpts:

So, I assume with an experience like this you'd be game to serve on more festival juries...

Happily. You meet people, you get diverse points of view. It's a treat to have Santiago Mitre, Luca Guadagnino, Ali Abbasi and, of course, all the actors sit there and give their perspective on a movie and break a film down. I'm just listening and taking in how people look at different cultures and how they see a film. It's a lot of learning also. I would be happy to repeat this. I'd be happy if anyone gave me movies to watch. There's no complaining. I make movies because I watch movies. I'm an audience first. I love watching films.

You said you've been to Marrakech earlier...

We came here in 2012 because the festival celebrated the centenary of Indian cinema. Mr Amitabh Bachchan, Shahrukh Khan, and Karan Johar were here. They did a very beautiful tribute to Indian cinema because people here love Hindi movies. They played Zindagi Na Milegi Dobara along with other films in the historic Jemaa el-Fna square.
